HONGKONG EN FETE FOR KING'S JUBILEE

LOYAL MESSAGE TO SOVEREIGN

THOUSANDS FLOCK TO COLONY

COLOURFUL SPECTACLES WATCHED BY CROWDS

WITH fitting ceremonial and pageantry, the Colony of Hongkong to-day loyally and enthusiastically began its celebration of Silver Jubilee Week under conditions giving promise of a most colourful and happy observance of an unforgettable occasion in the history of the Empire.

So great is the interest centred in the celebrations that there has been a tremendous influx of visitors from South China, estimates of the number who have come here to see the sights varying between 100,000 and 200,000.

With the majority of the main thoroughfares both on the island and mainland gaily decorated for the occasion, and the huge Chinese procession causing hundreds of thousands of people to line the streets, the Colony to-day presented a memorable scene of happy rejoicing on the part of all sections of the community. To-night, with the magnificent illuminations in full operation, an even more striking scene will be witnessed.

Special Thanksgiving Services were held at the Anglican and Catholic Cathedrals this morning, and at a public meeting to endorse a loyal address to be sent to His Majesty, H.E. the Governor paid a glowing tribute to Their Majesties, loyalty to whom, he said, was the basis of the unity of the Empire.

Those who were away from the business centres of the Colony yesterday and made their way through the streets of the City this morning were greeted with a most pleasing transformation. With the exception of Statue Square there was hardly a flag or strip of bunting in evidence when the business houses closed on Saturday and a stranger visiting the Colony during the morning would hardly have conceived that within forty-eight hours the Colony of Hongkong was to celebrate the Silver Jubilee of His Majesty. But during yesterday workmen were feverishly at work to deck Hongkong in a manner fitting such a celebration with flags and a gay sight met the eyes this morning. From almost every building along the waterfront Union Jacks are hung from the balconies and waved in the breeze from flagpoles on the roof top. In Statue Square there was a maze of colour where the main scheme of decoration was a series of posts draped with bi-coloured pennants of brilliant hue about fifteen feet high and twenty feet apart along the sidewalks with strings of smaller pennants suspended between them.

STRIKING EFFECT

Outside Lane Crawford's an admirable facade effect has been produced in red, white and blue. The balcony is draped along its entire length and immediately above it is a large inscription "Silver Jubilee" picked out in lights for night effect and flanked with two reproductions of the Royal Arms with a large portrait of Their Majesties as a centre piece.

Along the second floor of the Gloucester Building on the side facing the Post Office Building red, white and blue have again been used with effect along the balcony each ten or fifteen feet being fixed to the wall with a maple leaf crest the national emblem of Canada. Over the two canopies at the entrances to the Hongkong Hotel in Pedder Street a striking effect has been obtained with two large crests bearing the Royal Arms and surmounted by flags.

Immediately opposite, a beautiful floral design has been erected by the Greco-Egyptian Coffee Co., bearing the words "God Save the King" picked out in red flowers on a white background.

Streamers of flags are suspended from a point on the parapet of the King's Theatre across the building to the balcony over the entrance

CHILD BURNED TO DEATH

TENEMENT BLAZES

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1891. Received, May 6, 9.20 a.m.)

London, May 5. The first tragedy in any way connected with the Jubilee celebrations occurred at Islington to-day, when a child falling into some flames caused a tenement house to go up in flames like a tinder box.

Eight-year-old Elizabeth Onians was found buried beneath the charred remnants of the decorations she and some little friends had been arranging. Nine other children barely escaped with their lives.

Several very small children were thrown from the second storey of the tenement and caught by neighbours, with blankets, standing on the pavement.

Two of the hundreds of beacons which will be set alight all over Britain to-morrow, were wilfully ignited by persons unknown and destroyed, one in Durham and the other in Weybridge.

Men decoyed the guard of the bonfire away from his post, at the Durham beacon and then set it alight. They escaped their pursuers in the darkness.

while large portraits of Their Majesties adorn the pillars on either side of the lobby. Two large portraits of King George and Queen Mary also form the centre piece of the decoration of the front of the Queen's Theatre.

Normandie Sails For Trial Run

INTO HEART OF WILD STORM

RAIN SPOILS FESTIVITIES

St. Nazaire, May 5.

The gigantic French liner, Normandie, sailed from this old seaport to-day on her speed trials.

The French challenge for Atlantic speed and luxury travel ribbons, which will be met by the British-built Cunarder, the Queen Mary, the Normandie is the largest ship afloat to-day.

The Normandie put to sea in the midst of a terrific thunder storm, vivid lightning and a deluge of rain.

Thousands of people spent last night and to-day waiting for her departure, undeterred by the drenching rain.

Two destroyers and two hundred other craft, gay with bunting, should have accompanied the Normandie to sea, but many remained in port, fearing the dirty weather outside.

The great liner carries a crew of 850, and 800 workmen and decorators are still aboard performing the finishing artistic touches to the ship's interior.

There were 850 officials and guests of the owners in the ship for the trials.—Reuter.

London's Stage Now Fully Set

STREETS PACKED DAY AND NIGHT

CROWDS AT PALACE

(Special to "Telegraph")

London, May 5. The Jubilee stage is now fully set.

Huge crowds again to-day travelled along the gorgeously decorated route of the Royal Procession in bright sunshine. The pilgrimage began at dawn, the early arrivals mingling with the stragglers from last night's carnival.

Family cars from all quarters of the country, decorated with red and blue favours, filled the cheering people, and buses crowded with sight-seers, filled the streets in the West End which were so thronged that early day traffic had to be diverted from Oxford Street.

Thousands waited for hours outside Buckingham Palace, hoping to see Their Majesties, and wildly cheered as they caught a glimpse of the King as His Majesty passed an open window at 9 o'clock on his way to breakfast with the Queen.

The crowd at the Palace was so great that traffic had to be diverted.

Meanwhile, there was tremendous activity in the palace itself where the Lord Chamberlain and other high officials held last minute conferences about to-morrow's ceremony, while high household officials, secretaries and clerks are dealing with hundreds of congratulatory messages, including one from Chancellor Hitler, ex-

His Majesty King George the Fifth, in honour of whose Silver Jubilee the whole Empire will unite in thankful celebration to-day.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES

BIG CONGREGATIONS AT CATHEDRALS

TRIBUTES BY ANGLICAN AND CATHOLIC BISHOPS

LARGE congregations gathered at the special Jubilee Thanksgiving Services held at the Anglican and Roman Catholic Cathedrals this morning. Both were most impressive events, and a colourful note was struck by the attendance of numerous naval and military officers in uniform.

In the course of his sermon at the St. John's Cathedral service, which was attended by His Excellency the Governor and Lady Peel, Bishop Hall gave some personal memories of His Majesty and referred to the King's tireless devotion to duty and his great concern that no person and no personal interest should be overlooked amid the weight of business.

Bishop Valtorta, in his sermon at the Catholic Cathedral, said a closer bond of sympathy existed to-day between King George and his Catholic subjects than between them and His Majesty's predecessors since the Reformation.

FLANDIN HURT IN ACCIDENT

FAMILY ESCAPES INJURY

MOTOR CAR COLLISION

(Special to "Telegraph")

Paris, May 5. The French Prime Minister, M. Flandin, was painfully injured in a motor accident just outside Auxerre to-day, while driving with his wife, his daughter and son-in-law.

The Prime Minister suffered a fracture of the left humerus and is now in bed in a nursing home. There are no complications, it is reported, and his condition is not causing any anxiety.

Madame Flandin was shaken but was not hurt in the accident which, according to the police, occurred when another automobile collided with the Flandin family car. Mr. and Mme. Flandin's daughter and their son-in-law were not injured in any way.

President Lebrun has ordered an immediate enquiry to be made after the Premier and has sent M. Flandin a message hoping for his speedy recovery.—Reuter Special.

pressing sincerest good wishes. Here Hitler's message adds a word of appreciation for the efforts of His Majesty and the British Government to secure the peace of Europe.—Reuter Special.

ALREADY WAITING

London, May 5.

A great week-end of carnival reached its climax when at midnight to-night thousands of night-seers began to take up their positions along the whole of the Jubilee Parade route, while hundreds of people slept in Hyde Park, the gates of which were kept open at the King's command.

A continuance of warm, fine weather is predicted on the eve of the Jubilee.

Their Majesties were accorded a tumultuous greeting from the crowd of 100,000 when they appeared on the balcony of Buckingham Palace.

While the cheering crowds demonstrated their loyalty and affection, His Majesty sent his squerry to place a wreath upon the Cenotaph in memory of the Empire's dead.—Reuter.

M.D., Mr. V. M. Grayburn, Mr. Harold Green.

An inspiring address, in which he conjured up in the minds of many of his congregation personal memories of their Majesties during their twenty-five years reign, was given by Bishop R. C. Hall at the Cathedral this morning.

The Cathedral was filled to capacity and among those present were His Excellency the Governor, Sir William Peel and Lady Peel; His Excellency the General Officer Commanding, Major General O. C. Borrett, members of the Executive and Legislative Council, members of the Consular Body and many prominent European and Chinese residents.

Mr. Lindsay Lafford, F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., was at the organ and introduced the National Anthem with a fanfare effect replacing the usual introductory cord. At the conclusion of the service, Mr. Lafford played the choral prelude on "Now Thank We All Our God" (Karg-Elert) as a voluntary.

The service was conducted jointly by the Rev. E. G. Powell, the Rev. Leo Kau-yun and the Rev. H. W. Baines, while His Excellency the Governor read the Lessons.

The service commenced with the congregation singing the first verse of the National Anthem immediately after which was sung the hymn, "All people that on earth do dwell."

Following exhortations, Psalm 95 (Venite) and Psalm 121 were sung after which the Governor read the Lessons, the first being from Joshua 1 verses 7, 8 and 9 and the second taken from Revelation XXI verses 10, 11, 23 and 24.

BISHOP'S ADDRESS

The Bishop then delivered his address bidding the people to Thanksgiving and Prayer. He said: "Our Lord Jesus Christ chose to call Himself 'Son of Man'. In the Gospels there is written out for us the story of a life lived in the majesty of true humanity. We are come here to-day to thank God for a man who has, for the last 25 years, filled with humanity the majesty of the throne of Britain."

It is not for us to praise him; but we can and we do thank God for him. On this day of thanksgiving we gladly speak together of the great affection that is in our hearts for him.

The day of his Accession, May 6, 1910, is stamped very vividly on my mind. It was the beginning of my first Summer term in a Midland boarding school. Coming from the hard, weather-beaten North East coast where the trees were still bare I was raveling in the beautiful, new green of woodlands in Wootton Bassett. Suddenly against this fresh green background I saw from an old church tower St.

which is the Tootal's latest invention known for its special feature of crease-resisting.

Some ranges of Robia are printed. Colourful prints, simple or sophisticated as you please. Others are woven from coloured yarns. These have attractive surfaces—novel little raised dots and stripes, embroidered motifs and spots, criss-cross and raised thread designs. They make expensive looking frocks and blouses.

For all its delightfully delicate appearance Robia has a sturdy resistance to creasing. It is treated (just as Tootal Linen is treated) by a patented process which gives it a power to resist and recover from creasing—similar to that possessed naturally by wool. And washed as wool it will keep this crease resistance.

YOU CAN IDENTIFY ROBIA IN THE SHOPS BY THE NAME ON THE BELT EDGE.

Hollywood Version of
"Edwin Drod"

JEKYLL AND HYDE

Hollywood, greatly daring, has attempted to solve "The Mystery of Edwin Drod."

Probably no other unfinished work has given rise to so much controversy. More than 120 novelists and playwrights have completed the story, and 103 versions have been published.

So hotly did the controversy rage that a trial was staged in 1914, with Mr. Frederick T. Harry playing the role of the accused, John Jasper, Mr. G. K. Chesterton, in wig and robe, as judge; and Mr. Bernard Shaw as foreman of the jury. The jury members included William Archer, Justin Huntly McCarthy, William de Morgan, and W. W. Jacobs. Barristers, jurymen, and ushers all wore the costumes of the 'sixties.

Up to a guinea was offered for seats in Court, and the house was packed. Interest in America was so great that a detailed report was sent by wireless to New York and appeared next day on the front page of the New York Times. The verdict was that Jasper was guilty of manslaughter.

In the Universal Picture Corporation's film Jasper is a cold blooded murderer. Played by Claude Rains, the British actor who made a sensation in "Crime Without Passion," Jasper will be a Jekyll-Hyde character—a pious choir singer in a cathedral by day and an opium fiend and villain by night.

The mysterious Mr. Datchery turns out to be young Landless, who, disguised as the old man, exposes Jasper's crime.

Jasper commits suicide by jumping off a cathedral in the crypt of which he has buried his victim.

CLAUDE RAINS OBTAINS
DIVORCE

Alleging desertion without cause in New York in November, 1928, Claude Rains, the British stage and film actor, obtained at Trenton, New Jersey, his final decree of divorce from the British actress, Beatrix Thomson, who is now in London.

Claude Rains, who was described as a resident of Lambertville, New Jersey, filed an affidavit to the effect that his wife had been served in London with a notice that she was being sued for divorce.

Rains was born in London on November 10, 1889. He made his first stage appearance at the age of 11 in "Sweet Nell of Old Drury." He was call boy at His Majesty's Theatre, later stage promoter, and finally, for seven years, assistant stage manager. He subsequently made numerous stage appearances in London, New York, and other parts of the world. In 1933 he appeared in the film "The Invisible Man," and later in "Crime Without Passion."

Claude Rains married first Isabel Jeans and secondly Marie Hemingway. Both these marriages were dissolved. Beatrix Thomson, his third wife, was born in London in 1900. She studied at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art, and has been prominent on the London stage ever since she first appeared in "Loyalties" in 1922. During 1926-8 she paid a successful visit to America. Both she and Claude Rains appeared together in New York in "The Constant Nymph."

CHURCH MAKES TALKIE

The first religious talkie film to be made by the Church of England is to be produced by the Knights of St. Margaret's Film Club, attached to St. Margaret's Church, London, of which the vicar is the Rev. Brian Hession.

The story of the film is based on the church. Its title will probably be "Evensong," and the film itself will be in the form of an illustrated sermon.

Filming is to take place inside the church, which has now flood-

EGGS AND VEGETABLES

EGGS are fairly cheap now, and since they are a valuable source of protein, fat, and mineral matter, they should be used as freely as possible. Combined with vegetables, as in the dishes described below, they form an almost perfectly balanced food.

Eggs With Onions

Boil two large onions till quite tender, then chop them finely and rub through a sieve. Melt one tablespoonful butter in a pan, stir in one tablespoonful flour, and mix to a smooth cream. Add the onion puree, season with salt, pepper, and a teaspoonful lemon juice, and simmer gently for ten minutes. Meanwhile prepare some "oufa mollets" as follows:—Into a pan of boiling water plunge carefully as many eggs as you require, allowing at least one per person. The eggs should all be placed in the water simultaneously if possible, and to this end a wire basket may be used. If the eggs are small, boil them for five minutes, if medium for six, and if large, for seven minutes. Now with a small knife tap the eggs very gently till they are well cracked all over, and carefully remove the pieces of shell. Keep eggs and puree hot while you prepare (as quickly as possible) a Mornay sauce, using a tablespoonful each of hot milk, salt and pepper to taste, and three heaped tablespoonfuls grated cheese. Now pour the onion puree on to a hot fireproof dish, place the eggs on it, cover them with the Mornay sauce, sprinkle with a little grated cheese, and bake in a quick oven till brown.

A short Police Court scene will also be included in the film, the making of which has been made possible by the loan of apparatus by a film company, the only expense borne by the church club being the cost of the actual negative film.

GIRL SHRINKS INTO HAG

GHASTLY MALADY
OF SPRINGTIME

Birmingham, Alabama.

The advance of spring brings strange terror to 12-year old Mary Kate Ware, who leads a weird "Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde" existence in real life.

Each year, as buds open and flowers bloom, a mysterious malady temporarily transforms the laughing, plump little girl into a shrunken witch-like creature.

To-day, just as Stevenson's famous fiction character entered the body of Dr. Hyde, Mary's "Dr. Jekyll" was slowly changing the small body again. Doctors fear this visit may be permanent.

Childish fingers are once more curving into talons, and her back is becoming hunched. Chubby features are thinning into cruel lines as her head shrinks into her shoulders. One foot drags as the deformed child shuffles along hospital corridors.

Doctors are completely baffled by the deformity. Mary's mother said more than 200 of them have failed to diagnose the child's trouble.

Mary, her mother said, was a normal, lovable little girl until she was three, when the first attack came. As summer arrived, however, her health returned and she romped and played with other children.

For nine years, the visits have continued. Sometimes Mary has lost more than 20 pounds in the spring.

She would regain the weight and continue to grow normally. She reached the fifth grade in school with an average scholastic record.

Curiously, Mrs. Ware said, her daughter complained of no pain until last year, when the affliction was accompanied by severe headaches and pains in her arms and shoulders.

"They hurt," she whimpered to her mother one night as a new attack came. The deformity did not completely disappear as usual that year and doctors believed the gradual return of Dr. Jekyll may mean permanent sorrow to Mary Ware this time.—United Press.

SUSPECTED PRIESTS

BUDDHIST SOCIETY
SUSPENDED

Peiping, Apr. 22.

The Puhua Buddhist Society, an evangelical sect with headquarters on sacred Wutshan in Shansi, has been ordered to suspend its activities and dissolve its organization by the Peiping Headquarters of the Kuomintang. The religious organization is charged with subversive, anti-Government activities carried on under the guise of religious work.

The Society, of comparatively recent origin, has branches in many cities and towns in Hopei and Shantung. Travelling priests go from branch to branch, ostensibly preaching in an evangelical campaign.

The Kuomintang dispatched a group of special investigators to Shansi to check up on all activities of the Society. Definite evidence of anti-Central Government activities was reported by these men. Hence, charged with fouling the people, collecting money illegally, "and other unlawful acts" in the provinces of Hopei and Shantung, the Society has been ordered dissolved.—United Press.

fur. She arrived with her mother, Mrs. Barton, who gave her away.

Only about 20 or 30 guests were present, most of them being relatives.

The couple left for a motoring honeymoon in England, but it has to be a short one, for the bride has to return to fulfil some film contracts.

THE DECCA PORTROLA

A complete all electric radio-gram in the compass of an ordinary acoustic portable. Something that—until the introduction of this truly remarkable little instrument—was considered out of the question. But the seemingly impossible has been accomplished and DECCA—the inventors of the first acoustic portable—now introduced the world's first portable radio-gram.

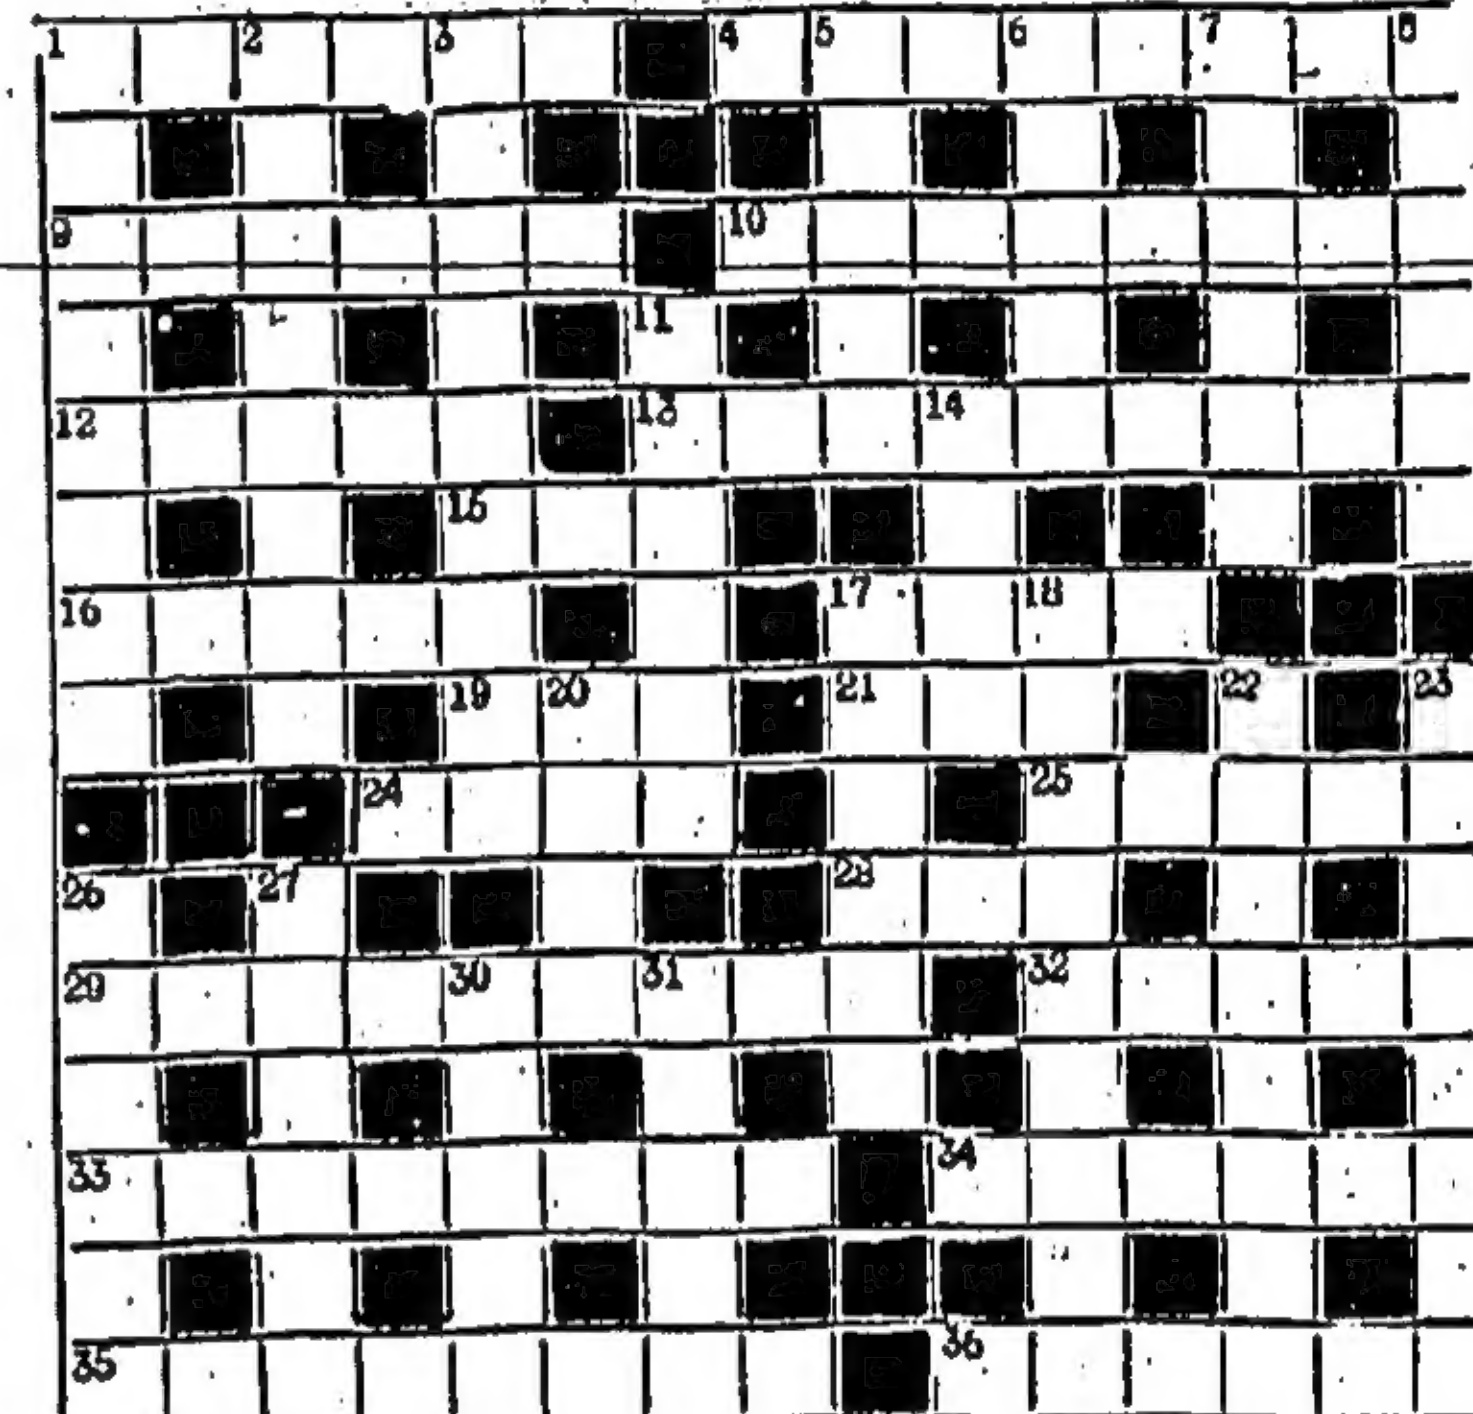

A marvel of ingenuity, the 'Portrola' is distinguished not merely for its portability and novelty, but it really is a highly efficient radio-gram, giving superlative results on radio or records and challenging favourable comparison with most multi-valve receivers.

BUSES FOR PEIPING

RICKSHA MEN STILL HAVE JOBS

Peiping, Apr. 19.

Plans for the establishment of a municipal bus line in Peiping were announced yesterday. The matter has been under discussion for some months, a decision finally being reached a few weeks ago.

Thirty large American buses have already been ordered from a local firm. It was announced yesterday. Four are to be delivered by the end of this month, the rest to arrive here about two months later. At present it is planned to inaugurate the line about June 1.

The final plans have been submitted to the Municipal Council for formal approval. Immediate execution of all phases of the plan is promised upon the approval of the Council.

It is also announced that the bus routes will coincide with those at present followed by the street-car lines. It is explained that the reason no new routes are to be established is out of consideration for the thousands of ricksha pullers throughout the city. At present rickshas act as feeders and distributors for the various street-car lines. If the bus routes were extended to territory not now covered by the street-cars, many rickshas would be forced out of business—and the pullers out of a living.

A total of from $200,000 to $300,000 is estimated to be necessary for the project.—United Press.

MENACE OF MOB

FOLLOWING TRIAL OF "MISS KILLER"

Peiping, Apr. 19.

A rumour to the effect that the trial of "Miss Killer"—Miss Liu Ching-wei—was to be held at the Peiping District Court yesterday, brought a crowd of well over a thousand persons stampeding into the courtroom early in the morning.

More than 700 were on hand as early as seven o'clock. Others came, and by the time the building was opened at eight, nearly as many were present as on the day the trial was originally scheduled to be held.

Nor could the crowd be persuaded that no trial was to be held. Repeated announcements by the officials of the court to the effect that Miss Liu was definitely not to be tried failed to convince the crowd. Shouting that they had been cheated, the would-be spectators "dug in" and remained most of the day.

The police attached to the court were helpless in the face of the great numbers. An emergency call to the nearest police station brought a large detachment of armed police who finally managed to restore order and disperse the crowd. A few, however, remained until six o'clock, when the clerks and officials of the court left for the day.

Fearing further trouble with an excitable mob, the court has stated that the trial of Miss Liu will not be announced publicly in advance.—United Press.

MISSION ACTIVITY

EPISCOPAL CHURCH TO BUILD BIG SHANGHAI HOSPITAL

New York, May 5.

It is announced that the National Council of the Episcopal Churches has authorized the construction of a huge hospital and nurses' home near Shanghai.

Half a million U. S. dollars are already available for the building which, when completed, will have accommodation for 270 in-patients.

The Council has also authorized the construction of a new building for women's work and also the erection of a parish house at Kyoto.

It is said that the measures look "to the restoration of a considerable volume of missionary work which was suspended on account of financial stringency," and are evidence "of the Episcopal Church's determination to recover lost ground in the mission fields."—United Press.

MEMEL SITUATION

LITHUANIA REPLIES TO THE THREE POWERS' NOTE

London, May 5.

The Lithuanian Government's reply to the joint communication which, in accordance with the decision reached at Stresa, was recently presented to that Government on behalf of Great Britain, France and Italy, was yesterday handed to the representatives in Kovno of these Powers.

The Note of the three Powers, while recognizing that the Lithuanian Government had encountered certain difficulties, declared that the present situation in Memel was irreconcilable with the terms of the statute which provides as a basis of the system of Government, for the existence and regular functioning of a Chamber and of directorate possessing its confidence. The Lithuanian Government was called upon to bring this situation to an end promptly by ensuring the constitution of such a directorate and an early meeting of the Chamber.—British Wireless.

AFFRAY ON SHIP

BRAWL RESULTS IN DEATH OF FRUIT HAWKER

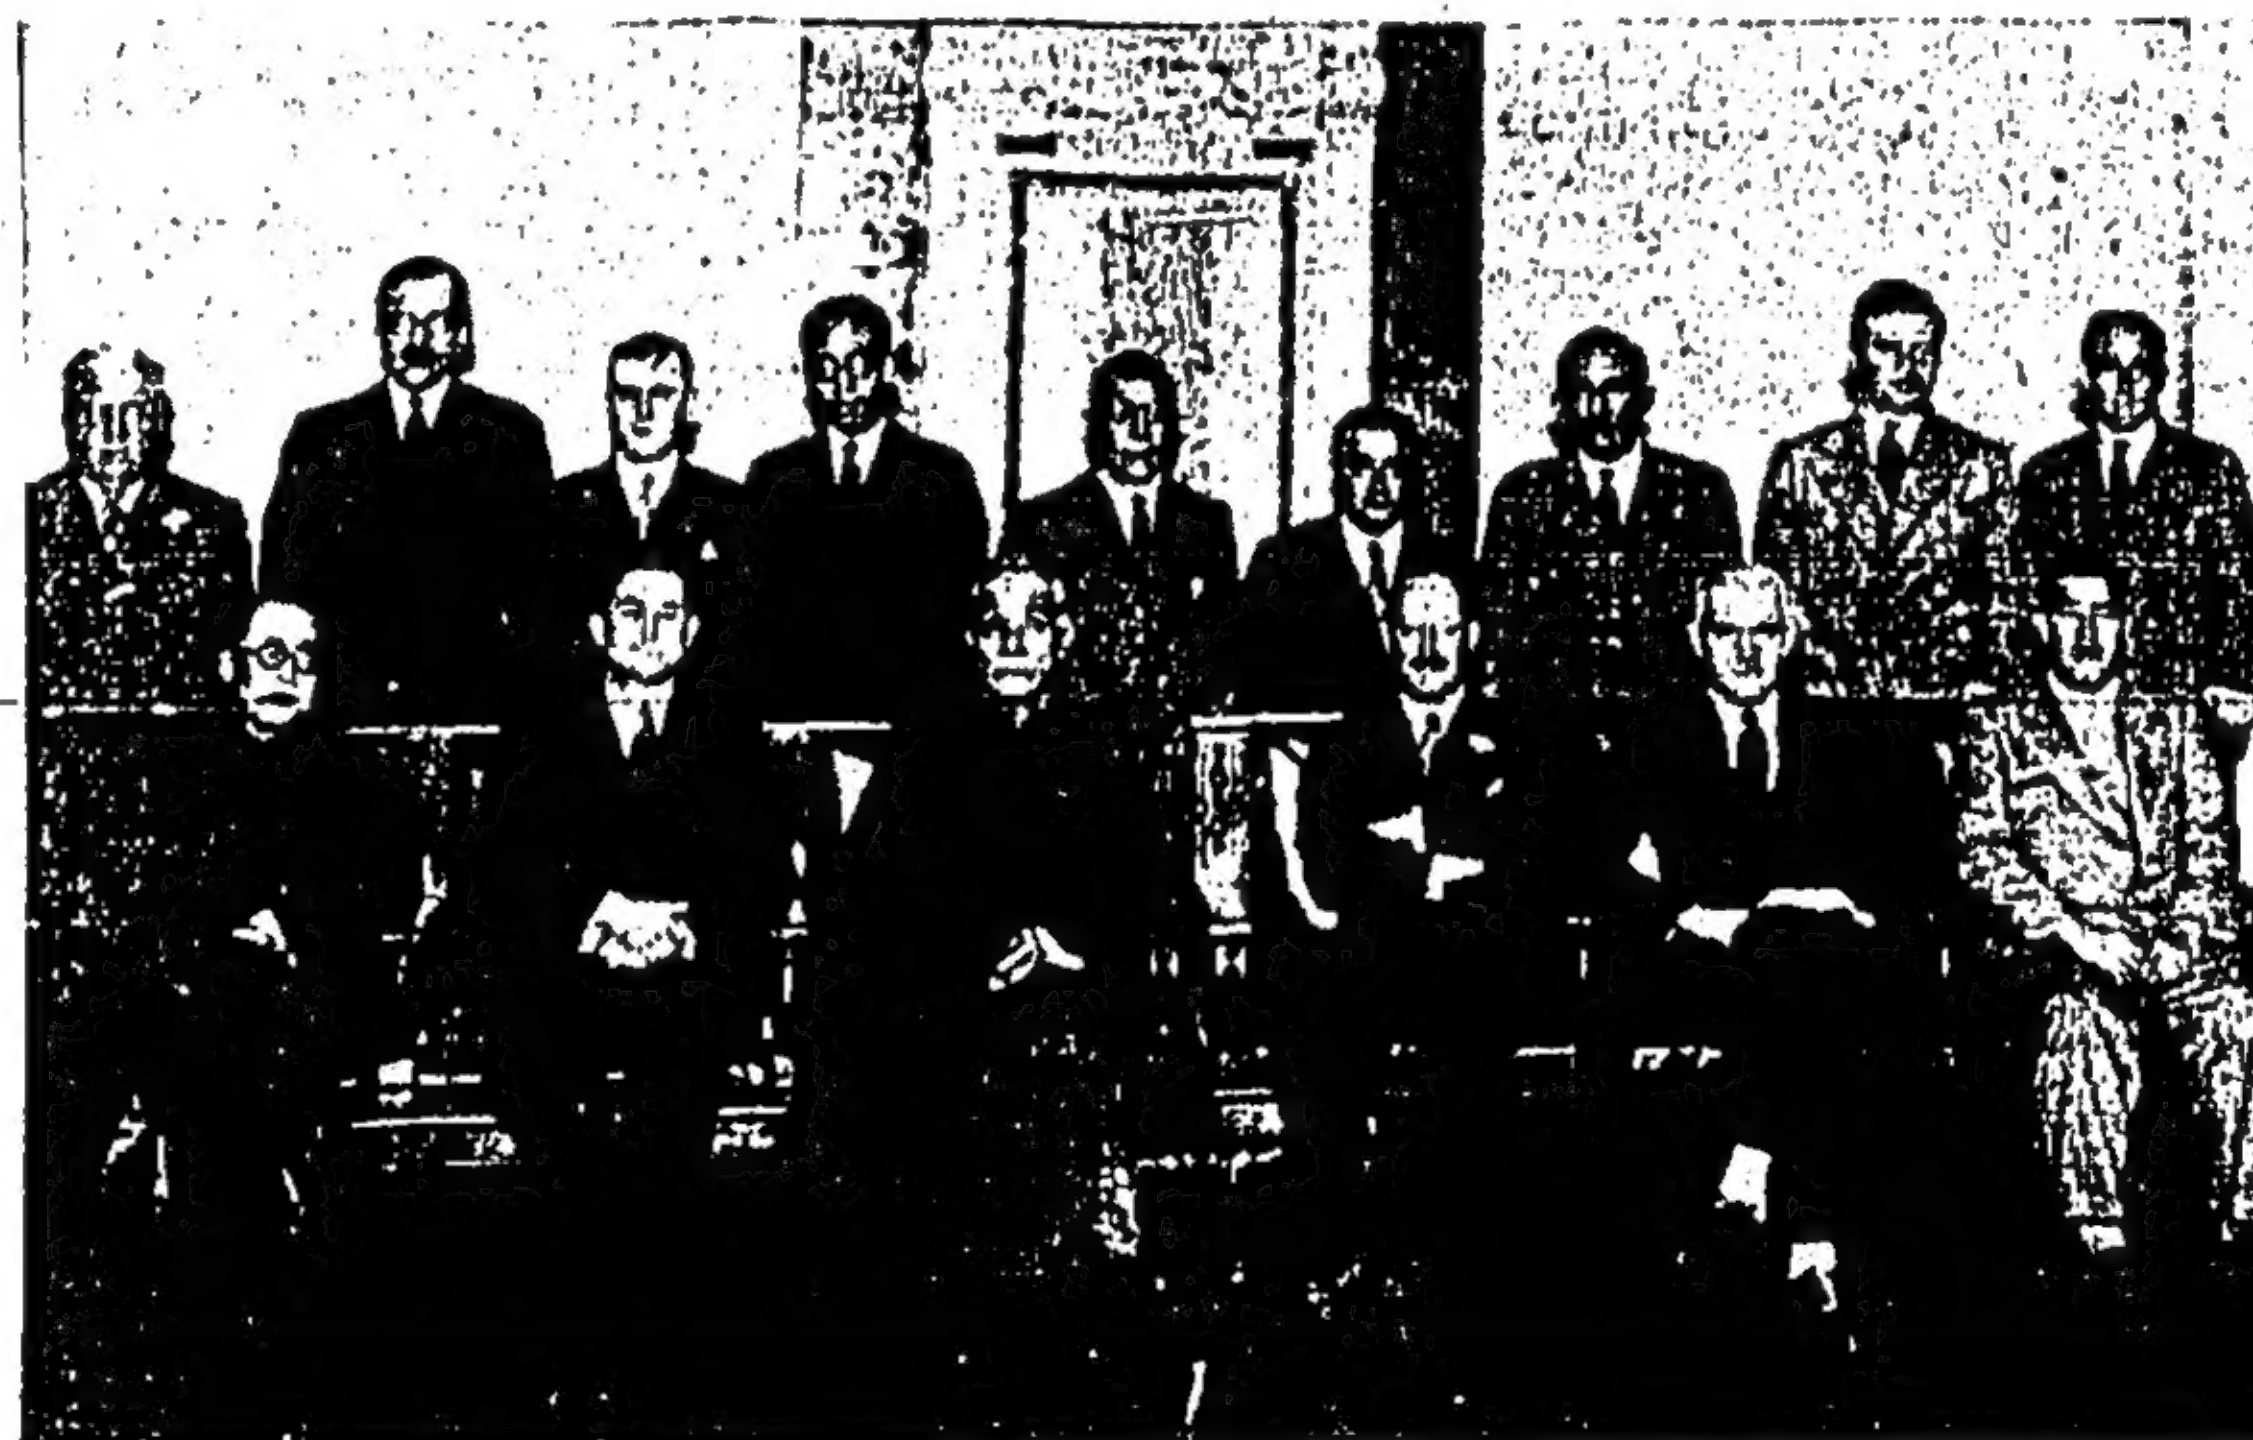

On its arrival in Hongkong from Canton shortly after 10 p.m. on Saturday the Canton steamer Tai Shan was met by a party of police as the result of a wireless message stating that a passenger had been killed in a fight on board the ship.

The deceased, a 30-year-old male named Mo, is stated to be a fruit hawker. At the time of his death he was travelling on the ship as a steerage passenger.

It appears that the ship left Canton for Hongkong shortly after 4 p.m. and when in the vicinity of Whampoa the man became involved in a brawl and received injuries to which he succumbed during the journey.

It is alleged that the man stopped on the foot of a fruit-seller, and an argument arose which soon developed into a brawl. In the course of the brawl it is alleged that a bottle was used as a weapon, with fatal results.

Twenty-five men, alleged to have been involved in the brawl, were detained by the police for questioning.

Meeting for the first time since their election, members of the Shanghai Municipal Council for 1935 assembled at the Council Chamber recently for the purpose of electing a Chairman and Vice-Chairman. Mr. H. E. Arnold was re-elected Chairman and Mr. W. P. Lamb, Vice-Chairman. Photo shows the Councilors and executives of the Secretariat seated outside the Council Chambers after the noon meeting. The new Council consists of Messrs. H. E. Arnold, J. A. Carney, Chen Chieh, C. S. Franklin, W. Gockson, S. L. Hsu, E. Y. B. Kiang, V. St. J. Killery, J. H. Liddell, H. Porter, T. Urabe, T. Yamamoto, and Yu Ya Ching. Mr. Lamb was not present at the meeting.

KLIM— ITS ADVANTAGES

- 1 CONVENIENCE. Klim is pure, rich cow's milk in powdered form. It needs no ice to keep it in summer. For cooking it may be used dry in the same manner as sugar, salt or flour.
- 2 ECONOMY. Klim is economical because there is no spoilage, it does not sour, you use only what you need when you need it.
- 3 FLAVOUR. The rich, natural milk flavour of Klim is enjoyed by everyone and, used in cooking, makes foods taste better.
- 4 HEALTHFULNESS. Klim has all the well-known health elements of milk with the added benefit of easier digestibility.
- 5 UNIFORMITY. Klim is standardized for quality and purity, and you can always be certain of the same percentage of butterfat every day.
- 6 VITAMINS. Highest technical authorities show that the Klim process does not destroy the vitamins which are so valuable in milk.

A demonstration is being held during Jubilee Week at the Provision Dept. of Wing On & Co., Ltd.

You are cordially invited to visit it, and see how easily Klim is prepared.

If you are not already a Klim user, get a trial tin from the demonstrator.

Tokyo, May 5. It is now learned that the yacht "Osten" has been detained and that Kretz and Ruffo were arrested at Taku in the middle of April and taken to Taku, Tachiu prefecture. Ruffo has since been released, but Kretz is still imprisoned. The authorities declare that they have no information, but are investigating the matter.—Reuter.

A message last week stated that Otto Kretz, a German national, and Severin Ruffo, a French national, who left Shanghai in a small sailing boat for American via Manila, had been arrested at Taku on a charge of espionage.

The Flying Dutchman. Tachiu, Formosa, May 5. The examination of the three foreigners from the Flying Dutchman, which went ashore here on May 2, while ostensibly on a voyage to the South Seas, was completed today and the authorities announced that the prisoners will be sent to Tachiu City to-morrow for trial on charges of violation of the Shipping Law and suspicion of espionage.—Reuter.

CINEMA NEWS

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

One of the most difficult pictures to photograph was "Night Life of the Gods" Universal's amazing novelty comedy coming on Thursday to the King's Theatre. Intensive study and research consuming more than six months was necessary before the film could start actual production. And after that every care had to be taken to insure the most minute detail. The story, dealing with the highly scientific discovery of a formula whereby an eccentric young scientist can turn statues into living beings and vice versa, is the first of its kind ever to be put on the screen. To Lowell Sherman, the director, goes credit for undertaking this venture—some experiment and carrying it through to great success. Never before has anything like it been seen on the screen. Actual marble statues, standing in the museum on pedestals, come to life as humans! With a cast of more than 200, including 23 featured players, this picture is considered one of the outstanding pictorial achievements in screen history. Prominent members of the huge cast include Alan Mowbray, Florine McKinney, Peggy Shannon, Wesley Barry, Irene Ware, Marla Deering and George Hissell.

"Charlie Chan in Paris"

Evolution new ways of nearly getting killed and new complications to be solved, may seem an unusual method of spending one's time. But it's a pleasure for Warner Oland, noted portrayer of Oriental roles on the screen. Firmly established with the theatre-going public, Charlie Chan who is best seen as the embodiment of that suave Chinese detective, takes a proprietary interest in the character. He is also an ardent student of detective literature. The result is that whenever a new "Chan" picture is being prepared, Oland sits in during many of the story conferences. "The task becomes increasingly difficult with each picture," Oland commented during the filming of his latest thriller, "Charlie Chan in Paris" opening to-day at the Queen's Theatre. "There are only so many ways in which a man can be murdered, and many of these are unsuitable for screen purposes. The burden of working out a new and exciting set of adventures for the suave Mr. Chan, however, always falls on the writer. Philip MacDonald, author of the picture, the seventh in the successful series of Chan films, and the scenarists, Edward T. Lowe and Stuart Anthony, have recently discovered an entirely original mystery theme. Mary Brian, Erik Rhodes, John Miljan, Dorothy Arzner, Minor Watson, Henry Kolker and Thomas Beck have the principal supporting roles in "Charlie Chan in Paris."

"The Past of Mary Holmes"

Motion picture production methods, sometimes calling for last scenes to be taken early in the work, are a constant puzzle to stage actors and directors. This reverse-action did not occur to hamper "The Past of Mary Holmes," produced by RKO-Radio Pictures. Co-director Harlan Thompson, successful writer, director, and producer of stage hits, and more recently a screen playwright, insisted that stage star Helen MacKellar be given every advantage in her screen debut. Hence, with Slavko Vorkapich, his associate, he arranged to shoot the production in almost the chronological sequence in which it appears on the screen. The last scene filmed was the last scene of the film. "The Past of Mary Holmes," featuring Eric Linden, Miss MacKellar, Jean Arthur and Richard "Skeets" Gallagher, is the production today at the Star Theatre. It is from the story "The Goose Woman" by Rex Beach.

"Behold My Wife"

After having been cast with a raven-haired leading man in her recent films, Sylvia Sydney, Paramount's star of "Behold My Wife," due shortly at the Queen's theatre, finds a foil for her own dark beauty in the distinctive, blonde good looks of Gene Raymond, her new romantic lead. Adapted from Sir Gilbert Parker's "The Translation of a Savage," the picture is the story of a social register who married an Indian girl to revenge himself on his family. Gene Raymond at the boy, flies to New Mexico when his family interfere in his attempt to marry a girl whom he loves. He is wounded and nursed back to health by Miss Sydney as Tonita. While he is convalescing, a plan for revenge hatches in his mind and he marries Tonita and takes her back with him. Although the family, at first, are horrified, they attempt to make the best of a bad situation and hold a reception in her honour. She appears in evening clothes, captivates everyone with her beauty, but Michael, disgruntled because he is cheated of his revenge, reveals his true purpose to her. Broken hearted and disillusioned, Tonita runs away with another man, Monroe O'waley. It is only when she has gone that Michael realizes his love for her. He follows her to ask her to take him back. He discovers then that O'waley has been killed and Tonita has confessed to the murder. In a stirring and dramatic last scene, these two confess their love to each other and a surprise change of events clears her of the charge and frees her to go with Michael. The picture is a Mitchell Losen directed Paramount production.

A special ten dance will be held at Regulus Bay Hotel this afternoon. (No ten dance to-morrow, Tuesday). There is a half hourly bus service this afternoon.

George's flag flying at half mast.
I know King Edward had gone to his rest.

I found a new boy at school with whom, for the next ten years, I was to be very closely associated. He was the only one of my school friends who survived the war. His right leg was amputated at the thigh. This one legged man was to become the King's Pathologist.
His name appeared on the bulletins that told us of the gallant fight the King made to overcome his great illness.

It was as a boy too in the Officers
Training Corps in Windsor Great
Park on the morning of the famous Agadir incident that I first saw the King. It was a strange experience to see him seated on his horse as I had so often seen him pictured, and to know that he was real. A real man with a man's capacity for joy and suffering, for work and weirdness and sleep.

Five years later, when that ominous Agadir morning had been fulfilled in the war, I was for a moment face to face with him in London. I was deeply moved by the terrible lines of anxiety and suffering on his face.

For my generation that face is what the King means to us. We know what the war cost so many members of the great family of which he is father; and we know what it cost him, as father of the family, in anxiety and concern for his people.

PERSONAL MEMORIES

I thought it best to speak of His Majesty, thus personally this morning hoping it would revive your own personal memories of him. For I am convinced that the King, and the Queen who has been so closely associated with him, would prefer that our thoughts of them to-day should be personal thoughts.

To me and to many the great cost of the war in personal life and personal sorrow, which we know he shared with us, is the great memory. He symbolizes the suffering responsibility of parenthood in those days when Europe's youth was set to slay each other.

To others there will be memories, and grateful memories, of his personal dealing with the political and industrial troubles that have vexed our country since the war. Others will have some personal experience of tireless devotion to duty, or of his great concern that no person and no personal interest or trouble should be overlooked amid the weight of business.

TRUE MAJESTY

Our Lord Jesus Christ has shown us the humanity in the heart of God, and that there is no majesty to compare with loving service. We have had experience in the last 25 years of a King and Queen who have carried the spirit simply and devotedly into the bewildering multitude of responsibilities which crowd upon them.

There is a story told of the late
King Edward. He was asked
"Don't you think, your Majesty, that we pray for you too much?"
"Not too much," he replied, "but too often."

And so I would ask you to-day to pray with all your hearts to Almighty God that our King and Queen may have the courage and wisdom and the health they need to carry on into advancing years the responsibility they have already carried for a quarter of a century so naturally and happily amongst so much confusion and anxiety.

It is my privilege this morning to propose the King's health to you in the fullest and deepest sense we Christians know. From the bottom of our hearts let us say
"The King.....the King: God bless him."

At the conclusion the hymn "O God of Jacob" was sung during which a collection for the King's Jubilee Fund was taken.

Thanksgiving was offered and following this Suffrages and Prayers were said for King George and Queen Mary; the Royal Family and a prayer in Chinese for China, concluding with the Lord's Prayer.

The Christian hymn of praise,
Te Deum Laudamus, was then sung after which the Blessing was pronounced by the Bishop, the congregation all kneeling.

The service was concluded with the National Anthem.

THE KING

Hongkong to-day joins with the rest of the Empire in heartfelt thanks that His Majesty King George the Fifth has been spared to celebrate his Silver Jubilee, gladly reaffirms its loyalty to the Throne and to the person of the King, and earnestly prays that he may long continue to rule his people with that loving solicitude and high regard for his responsibilities which have been the outstanding characteristics of his beneficent reign. It can truthfully be said that no monarch in the history of the British people ever lived through more trying times. The stress and anxieties of the Great War have had a counterpart in the restlessness and instability of the year that have since passed. But, in war or peace, King George has probably been more truly the King of his people than any of his predecessors. None certainly has won more loving regard or real affection. It has well been said of His Majesty that he has already lived so full a life that the memory of him and his worth will persist when the troubled age in which he reigned has passed away. And the foundation and the substance of that memory will be the truth so richly emphasised by the celebration of his Jubilee—here is one who by accident of birth became a King, and, becoming a King, established a new monarchy, a monarchy of service to his people and his time. When we come to analyse His Majesty's reign we find his success to lie in the fact that he has been the perfect constitutional monarch. He has never overstepped the line. He has never clashed with his Ministers, be they Tory, Liberal or Labour. He has hearkened to the voice and the mandate of the people. Aside from his State duties, he has lived the life of a modest English gentleman, and has thus appealed to the goodwill of his subjects. When he was crowned King, twenty-five years ago, he was one of four rulers who reigned

NOTES OF THE DAY

FARES ACROSS THE SEA

Chenping of trans-oceanic passages by liner is so desirable in the interests of international neighbourliness that the scheme recently put forward for establishing a low rate for the Atlantic voyage should not be allowed to drop. The British Government has refused official support for a scheme to set up a $10 rate lest there should be such wasteful competition with existing steamer companies as that which came to an end last year with the completion of the Cunard-White Star merger. Mr. Neville Chamberlain, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, in announcing this in the House of Commons at Westminster on November 28, did not suggest any alternative cheap-fare scheme, though very useful possibilities of improved intercourse across the Atlantic might be expected to develop from such reform. Europe and America offer contrasts in the picturesque and the practical, in the miniature and the spacious, in the old and the new. The western branches of the human race have much of value to learn from one another. Cheapening of means of intercommunication is needed materially to increase the flow of visitors from either side. Provided the low rates were not uneconomic, trade would benefit. More important still, international comprehension and harmony would grow; for sympathy is a plant that blooms generously in company, but can put forth only exiguous flowers when alone. The way to promote good understanding is to keep friendship bright by constant use. This, the lowering of transatlantic fares would help to do.

THE RED ROBE

England had its Wars of the Roses and now the Irish Free State has a tidy little "War of the Colours" on its hands, the difference being that, instead of the fifteenth century yeoman's longbow, the only Irish weapons are words of derision, barbed with wit and scorn. It is really all the fault of King John, who, having been forced to sign Magna Charta, seems thereafter to have been quite free with his royal signature. The English King meant well enough when he told the Archbishop of Dublin "to buy crimson cloth to clothe my faithful subjects in Ireland," and when he dipped his pen in black ink he could hardly be expected to know that 700 years later it would make the good wives of Drogheda, in County Louth, see only red. From ancient times the town councillors of Drogheda have worn official robes of crimson hue, thus lending a gay, not to say regal, nuance to the city on the Boyne. Everything was all right until this year of grace 1935, when an historically minded city father did some reading and discovered to his horror that dreadful phrase about "faithful subjects" of the English King. Fateful symbol of British tyranny! Ripping out the red, and garishing their gowns with green, the councillors declared at once their sturdy independence, and their allegiance to the shamrock. But men propose and their wives dispose. Green may be patriotic, but the ladies of (Continued on next column) over the mightiest Kingdoms of the world. The others were his first cousin, then Kaiser Wilhelm II of Germany; his other first cousin, then Czar Nicholas II of Russia; and the aged Franz Josef, Emperor of Austria-Hungary. To-day, the Czars are no more, and Stalin rules Russia; the former Kaiser lives in exile in Holland, and Hitler rules in his stead; whilst the Austro-Hungarian Empire has been torn to pieces, with the last of its rulers, Emperor Karl, exiled in a foreign land. When King George came to the Throne, most of Europe had dynastic rulers; to-day a large part is either Republican or under dictatorships. Through all these twenty-five years, with Thrones having toppled all around him, King George has remained the beloved monarch of his people, both at home and overseas, and to-day he is more firmly established than ever on his Throne. A Queen Mary, he has had an ideal consort, one who has shared his joys and sorrows and been an inspiration to him in all that he has undertaken. The Empire does well to-day to pause awhile and contemplate its debt to a king among kings, happy in the knowledge that he still wields the Royal sceptre. Small unit though it be in the great British Commonwealth, Hongkong loyally and gladly joins in the Jubilee rejoicings, fervently re-echoing the universal invocation:

GOD BLESS THE KING!

Our King and Queen on their Silver Jubilee

Queen Mary's first visit to France in July, 1917.

OUR photo to-day was taken in July, 1917, on the occasion of Queen Mary's first visit to France.

King George had been there on several occasions, while the Prince of Wales seemed to revel in the fighting, having been granted permission to join fighting units, among them being Canadian.

But there was a more significant occurrence in July, 1917, than the visit of the Queen to France. It was in this month that King George issued a proclamation changing the name of the royal family to the House of Windsor. The King's proclamation was popular; the use of all German titles, dignities and honours were abandoned.

Previously, the royal family had been known as the House of Saxe-Coburg, and the family name of Prince Albert, the King's grandfather, was Wettin. All these were renounced in the new name of Windsor.

The name was chosen from the historic home of the royal family, the beautiful Windsor Castle, situated on the Thames river, within the lights of London. It is one of the most romantic castles in the United Kingdom.

But through all this, the war was still going on; the United States had announced her entry into the conflict in this year when the tide of battle seemed to be going against the allied forces. Her entry gave the allies a new strength, a new morale.

It was in these years of struggle, hardship and sacrifice that the British people looked more than ever to their King for guidance and example. He did not fail them.

To-morrow: The Royal Family in 1920.

Drogheda flatter object. Poetically the wearing of the green is quite all right; sartorially they find it rather dull. It looks as if the ladies will win and robes will be red. Almost is precluded on their side. 'Twas the Orangemen wearing a kindred colour who won an earlier Battle of the Boyne.

HARRYING THE CRIMINAL

The expert criminal is not yet extinct, nor is he likely to be for many years to come. The resources of science, however, are being increasingly massed against him, and his work becomes more and more difficult. True, he has the advantage of applying scientific knowledge to his nefarious calling, but it may be said with general accuracy that in this respect the forces of criminal detection are always a few moves ahead of him.

The latest development, which has not yet been brought to perfection, but which promises a good deal for the future, is the transmission of fingerprints by wireless. Already the photographs of criminals can be sent by wire or radio, and when fingerprints can also be dispatched at a moment's notice to or from the scene of a crime, a chain of rapid identification will be forged from which many law-breakers may find it difficult to escape. Much has been heard of the motor bandit or smash-and-grab raider, whose activities, by the way, the police appear to have succeeded in reducing to inconsiderable dimensions, and he was often cited as a case where speed had come to the assistance of the criminal. The speed of the bandit's car, however, is as nothing compared with the speed of wireless transmission; so it may rightly be said that, so far as the time factor is concerned, the forces of law and order still have a great advantage; for which let us be thankful.

gaily bedecked with flags greet the eye. A closer view shows it to be an elaborately decorated Chinese triumphal arch or paifu standing some 200 feet high—the contribution of the stallholders of the Central Market to the decorative scheme of the Colony. Over the entrance to the Market on Queen's Road it is constructed of bamboo and wood, and covered with historic and legendary Chinese figures. Rising from the top is a tower from which numerous flags flutter. At the base is a small stage from which programmes of Chinese plays and music will be given during the next three days.

Two more paifus erected by the business firms in Nam Pak Hong guard the entrances to the street itself and are both splendid examples of Chinese architecture. They are somewhat smaller than that put up by the stallholders of the Central Market but are by no means inferior in their representation.

IN KOWLOON

Another paifu stands on the Children's Playground at Wan-chai while on the mainland one has been erected opposite the Mongkok Ferry near Portland Street.

A similar scheme of decoration to that in Victoria Square has been produced at the Star Ferry approach on the mainland. Strips of multi-coloured pennants are suspended between posts along the side walks while flags flutter from all the prominent buildings and the Kowloon Railway Clock-tower.

Outside the Peninsula Hotel, over the main entrance is a large crest bearing the Royal Arms surrounded by flags.

Since daybreak all warships in the Harbour have been dressed overall and present a striking sight. Merchantmen enthusiastically have also entered into the decorative scheme and the Star Ferry, Vehicular Ferry, Canton and Macao steamboats are also gay with flags.

HISTORIC PUBLIC MEETING

GLOWING TRIBUTE BY GOVERNOR

The drill hall of the Volunteer Defence Corps was the scene of a stirring historic spectacle this morning when at a public meeting held there Hongkong paid loyal homage to His Majesty King George V and in the form of an exquisitely designed illuminated address which is to be sent to His Majesty gave renewed assurance of the Colony's loyalty to the British Throne and offered congratulation to the King on the occasion of the completion of twenty-five years reign over the British Empire.

The hall was filled to capacity and many who were unable to gain admittance crowded round the entrance. The decorations were simple but extremely effective, the scheme being in red, white and blue with numerous shields adorning the walls.

The address was beautifully designed and executed in parchment and was mounted with ivory and gold. It will be contained in a rose-wood casket with silver hinges and lock and a solid silver crest of the Colony arms on the lid.

The Hongkong Volunteers provided a Guard of Honour which was drawn up immediately outside the entrance to the Drillhall, under Capt. H. R. Forsyth.

A UNIQUE OCCASION

Addressing the meeting His Excellency the Governor said: "Your Excellency, Ladies and Gentlemen. We are met to-day on an occasion which will provide unique in the lives of most of us. On this day throughout the length and breadth of the British Empire the King's subjects are celebrating the 25th Anniversary of His Majesty's accession. These 25 years have been full of eventful history and the Empire has been through difficult times, but it has upheld its traditions and worked steadily to maintain the principle of liberty for all and has striven for peace throughout the world.

In the pursuit of such aims Your Gracious Majesties The King and Queen have played a great part and have personally contributed in a very large measure to such success as has been achieved. During the years that they have reigned over us they have shown a noble devotion to duty, never sparing themselves, and by their regard for themselves and by their regard for us and sympathy with their subjects have justly earned their affection.

Our Empire comprises many races and creeds but it possesses great unity—a unity which I may almost say has been the wonder of many. The great basis of that unity is loyalty—loyalty to the Throne and to the persons of Their Majesties.

Hongkong yields to no one in its loyalty and to-day all communities are uniting in giving further proof of such loyalty. In particular the Chinese Community which comprises the greater part of our population is showing, in spite of the present period of depression, striking evidence of its appreciation of the happy and stable conditions which obtain here under His Majesty's beneficent rule.

Also we as British subjects greatly appreciate the sympathy and good will of the members of other nations at present residing in Hongkong in sharing in our celebrations at this time.

THE LOYAL ADDRESS

We are assembled to-day to give expression to our loyalty first by adopting a humble and loyal address to His Majesty and as this will take some time to reach Home to agree to send a telegram at once conveying our humble good wishes and devotion. I now have much pleasure in moving that the following address be sent to His Majesty:—

"To His Most Gracious Majesty George V of Great Britain, Ireland and the British Dominions beyond the Seas, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India.

"May it Please Your Majesty.

"Your Majesty's Subjects in the Colony of Hongkong desire respectfully to tender their humble duty to Your Majesty and to express their loyalty and devotion to Your Majesty's Throne and Person on this auspicious occasion of the Twenty-Fifth Anniversary of Your Majesty's Accession to the Throne.

"They desire to tender their heartfelt Congratulations and Good Wishes to Your Majesty and pray that by the Grace of God Your Majesty may long be spared in health and happiness to guide the Destinies of the Great Empire over which You rule.

"They desire also to express their loving devotion to Her Gracious Majesty Queen Mary whose solicitude care for the welfare of Your Majesty's subjects in all parts of the world has won universal admiration and affection.

"In Commerce Hongkong is the Southern Gateway to China, in its great Harbour the ships of all nations assemble, in its population all nations are represented, its growth and stability are a living monument to British Enterprise and Chinese industry working together in peace and harmony under the aegis of Your Majesty's benign protection.

"Hongkong is unsurpassed in beauty among all Your Majesty's possessions and it is a source of deep gratification to the people that the Colony had been honoured by visits from Your Majesty and from Their Royal Highnesses the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Gloucester and the Duke of Kent.

"The deep reverence in which Your Majesties are held by your faithful subjects is shared by all the residents in Hongkong. Your devotion to duty and the examples of Your Majesties' lives spent in Service of Your people have won the widest admiration and the most profound respect.

"The Chinese population, which finds peace, order and good Government in Hongkong desires specially to Associate itself with the Congratulations and Good Wishes which will be showered upon Your Majesties on this Memorable Day from all parts of Your Majesty's world-wide Possessions.

On Behalf of the People of Hongkong,
W. Peel,
Governor.

Victoria,
Hongkong,
May 6th, 1935.

The Chief Justice, Mr. A.D.A. MacGregor seconded, and the proposal was carried unanimously and with prolonged acclamation.

TELEGRAM SENT

The following telegram referred to above was despatched to His Majesty the King this morning:—

"The inhabitants of Hongkong present their humble duty to Your Majesty and desire on this most auspicious occasion of the 25th Anniversary of your accession to the Throne to offer their respectful congratulations to Your Majesty and to Her Gracious Majesty Queen Mary and to give expression to their feelings of loyalty and devotion to your Throne and Persons.

"They pray that by the Grace of God Your Majesties may long be spared to continue your glorious and happy reign over a contented and united Empire.

W. Peel,
Governor.

MANNING SHIP NAVY OBSERVES OCCASION

The time-honoured ceremony of "manning ship" was an interesting and pretty contribution of the Royal Navy towards the local celebrations this morning.

At 11.45 a.m. the order for manning ship was given and across the decks of the warships at buoys in the man o' war anchorage sailors in spotless white could be seen coming into formation along the sides of the vessel until they were spread along the guard rails from stem to stern. The summer uniforms were a striking contrast to the multi-coloured flags with which the ships were dressed overall.

The Marine Band of H.M.S. Hermes and a special guard took up positions on the flying deck of the aircraft carrier; while sailors from ships in the basin assembled on the West Wall of the R.N. Dockyard under Cmdr. A.R.M. Bridge. With the order "Extend" the men on the warships stood at attention, and at a minute to noon each man grasped the rail with his arms crossing those of the men next to him.

At noon there was a deafening roar as Royal Salutes of 21 guns were fired from H.M.S. Tamara, H.M.S. Hermes, H.M.S. Medway and H.M.S. Sandwich.

For a full minute the sound of gunfire echoed through the hills and as it died away the strains of the National Anthem, drifted to the listener on the water front, played by the Marine Band on the Hermes.

As noon as the music stopped "attention" was again given and assuming the "off caps" order three lusty cheers for His Majesty came from the 2,500 men taking part in the ceremonial.

THE CHINESE PROCESSIONS

FISH LANTERNS A FEATURE

Without question, one of the most striking features of the local celebrations are the elaborate Chinese processions which have been arranged, the first of which began its perambulations this morning.

There are hundreds of fish lanterns, tableaux, floats on motor cars and four huge dragons, but probably the most unique sights of all will be the fish lanterns. These, over 120 in number, have been prepared by expert Chinese craftsmen from Shuntak in Kwangtung, who have been busy at work for many weeks past, designing and creating these artificial creatures.

Varied in hue and design, these fish each measure between ten and fifteen feet in length, and will be illuminated within by small kerosene lamps. No two fish will be the same in colouring, and every species known to the imagination of the Chinese workmen will be seen when these carried through the streets to-morrow night. These fish lantern processions are the first seen in Hongkong for many years, but they are organised for celebration purposes from time to time in the interior of Kwangtung. For this reason, it became necessary for the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, whose officials are responsible for this part of the night celebrations, to bring in special workmen from Shuntak.

Altogether, twenty-eight Guilds have joined in arranging the processions. In addition, other Associations and Guilds have made monetary contributions ranging from the Chinese Comrades Association's $340 to smaller contributions of $100 or upwards from sixteen other Associations.

SILVER DRAGON

Of the Guilds, which actually take part in the processions the Fishmongers', with their presentation of the Silver Dragon, lead the field with an expenditure of about $30,000. Apart from the silver dragon which will be manned by about 300 bearers in uniform, the Fishmongers' Guild has supplied over forty novel items for the processions. More than ten other Guilds have presented over twenty items each.

The great number of subjects covered by the processions has enabled the Guilds to employ a large number of bearers, in addition to the hundreds of craftsmen employed in their manufacture.

In all, it has been roughly estimated that the celebrations will provide temporary employment for about 30,000 men during the three days and two nights.

The Silver Jubilee has certainly aroused tremendous interest amongst the Chinese, including many thousands who have been attracted to the Colony.

Not since the trade boom in Hongkong before the Great Strike in 1925 have so many people been seen in the Chinese districts. Even the former pleasure-seeking district of West Point has shown considerable activity for the past fortnight, as many of the vacant restaurant buildings have been converted into temporary living quarters for the participants in the processions, including hundreds of Chinese musicians and dragon manipulators from Kwangtung. In one big godown alone, with the aid of many bamboo structures, bed accommodation has been provided for something like five hundred people.

WONDERFUL CREATIONS

On the various floats and tableaux are innumerable effigies and caricatures of animals such as elephants, deer, leopards, tigers, etc., most of which will be illuminated electrically or otherwise during the night procession.

Each of the tableaux has been specially decorated with distinctive Chinese characters naming the Silver Jubilee. Such characters are seen on each of the 1,800 silver plated scales of the silver dragon.

All in all, the Chinese processions strike an amazingly colourful note, and this morning as the first wended its way through the streets it was greeted by thousands of sightseers along the route.

THE GENERAL COMMITTEE

The detailed arrangements for the celebrations have been carried through by the following General Committee, formed from various sub-committees (formed from members thereof)—The Honourable the Colonial Secretary (Chairman), the Hon. HIS MAJESTY A POPULAR PATRON OF THE TURF

His Majesty is a keen supporter of the turf and he can often be seen on the principal courses in England.

RACES FOR SPORT, NOT PROFIT NOMINATES FREELY FOR PRINCIPAL EVENTS

SUCCESSFUL REPRESENTATION AT MANY MEETINGS

Amongst no section of His Majesty's subjects more so than Turf followers will happiness and gratification be felt that King George V. has been spared to celebrate his Silver Jubilee. Racing and racing men in England have a lot for which to thank the King, whose patronage of the Turf has greatly helped its prestige. His Majesty breeds as well as races horses, and is genuinely fond of the sport.

King George's name first appeared in England's list of winning owners in 1911, when six wins returned him £1,649.

Since then it has more than once been reported he intended to give up racing, but, in addition to being a ruler, he is a diplomat, and being aware that his retirement would be regretted by such a large number of people in England, he is never likely to take that step.

Breeding at his Sandringham stud and racing have been costly for him. He nominates freely for all the principal races, and in very few years has the return in prize-money gone close to covering the expenditure.

Richard Marsh was His Majesty's first trainer, but was succeeded a few years ago by W. Jarvis, while for many seasons Friar Marcus has been the principal stallion at the Sandringham Stud, and has sired many horses. Australia has had some of Friar Marcus' progeny, one being Cistercian.

RECORD OF WINS

King George's record in wins and stakes since he commenced in 1911 is as follows:

Year	Wins	Prize-money
1911	6	£ 1,649
1912	13	4,008
1913	5	4,480
1914	11	11,744
1915	2	976
1916	3	737
1917	8	4,171
1918	5	1,837
1919	4	2,146
1920	10	6,280
1921	10	11,369
1922	9	3,095
1923	10	6,134
1924	8	576
1925	8	4,433
1926	6	10,082
1927	7	4,480
1928	2	288
1929	2	2,047
1930	4	3,828
1931	10	8,028
1932	4	729

It will be noted that His Majesty reached the five-figure mark on three occasions. In 1914 he owed his total principally to Friar Marcus, who won each of the five two-year-old races in which he ran.

Knight of the Garter and Weather-vane were his principal carriers in 1923, and Scuttle in 1928, while Lime-light did best for him in 1933. King George has only once been successfully represented in any of the important, three-year-old races. If the good wishes of the English racing world could have accomplished it, he would have had a Derby and St. Leger to his credit long ago.

His father, King Edward VII, when Prince of Wales, won the Derby and St. Leger with both Persimmon and Diamond Jubilee, and after his accession to the throne, with Minerva.

ONLY CLASSIC SUCCESS

Similar good fortune has not yet fallen to the lot of King George, whose success in any of the classics is confined to that of Scuttle in the 1928 One Thousand Guineas. His Majesty bred that filly, who won three races at two years, and created such a good impression as a two-year-old that she was favourite for the Two Thousand. On the strength of that victory Scuttle was made a hot favourite for the Oaks, but was easily beaten by Lord Derby's Toboggan. The enthusiasm was tremendous when Scuttle won, and the popularity of the Royal colours has astounded many foreign visitors to an English meeting.

Cheerful commences as soon as they are seen in the lead, and swells in volume when it seems as if they are sure to be successful. Any anti-Royalist who has ever attended a race meeting at which one of the King's horses was successful, must have returned home convinced that his dreams of the downfall of monarchy in England were idle. England loves its King.

His Majesty has had a few Derby runners, one of these being Brake-spear, who was later at the stud in New South Wales, but he has yet to have a place-getter of monarchy in England.

LEAN YEAR

Last year was a lean one for the King. He won only four races, of a total value of £729. Nor, so far as the three-year-olds in the Royal stable are concerned, does the outlook for next season appear especially bright.

Home Rugby Season

EXTENDED FOR THE JUBILEE

CLOSING NEXT SATURDAY

The Rugby Union in order to enable contribution towards the King George Jubilee Trust Fund, organised by the Prince of Wales, have decided to extend the playing season to Saturday, May 11—three Saturdays beyond the normal time.

This action of the Rugby Union to mark the King's Jubilee is eminently practical and the best way of helping the fund. There have been suggestions that England and Wales should play Scotland and Ireland, but many difficulties stand in the way, and a better suggestion, and one that is likely to be adopted, is that the Barbarians should play London at Twickenham on May 4. Such a game would prove a tremendous draw.

London would be able to raise a powerful team with this year's international players, P. Crammer, H. Lind, E. S. Nicholson, D. T. Kemp, A. G. Criddle, H. J. Sayers, D. A. Thom, and D. A. Kendrew as a nucleus.

The Barbarians' resources are, of course, almost unlimited, and their XV would contain the cream of the talent outside London.

The players who took part in the Kotewall Cup match on Saturday are seen being presented to Commodore C. G. Sedgwick, R.N., prior to the kick off by Mrs. Sedgwick. (Photo: Mee Cheung).

KOTEWALL CUP SOCCER AT CAROLINE HILL

ROYAL NAVY LOSE AGAINST SOUTH CHINA

POOR ATTENDANCE WITNESSES SECOND CONTEST

South China:—Wong Wah-kai; Li Tin-sang and Lau Mau; Leung In-chun, Lam Tak-po and Leung Wing-chiu; Tso Kwai-shing; Lai Shiu-wing, Fung King-cheung, Ip Pak-wah and Li Shek-yau.
Royal Navy:—Crocker; Beard and Moss; Hughes, Lancashire and Bowers; Baxter, Rose, Cannell, Slavin and Wearmouth.

The absence of Lee Wai-tong, the football idol of China, was mainly responsible for the comparatively poor crowd of spectators at Caroline Hill ground on Saturday afternoon when South China overcame the Navy by two goals to nil in the second Kotewall Cup encounter. Play on the whole was very fast and both teams shared equal honours in a splendid exhibition of football.

The Navy held the upper hand in the first half but their forwards were appalling when in front of goal. Time and again they could have found the net but failed even with the Chinese custodian, Wong Wah-kai, fumbling simple shots! But for the coverage of Li Tin-sang, the Chinese might have faced the second half with a deficit.

South China made changes in their team, Lam Tak-po replacing Wong Mee-shun in the pivotal position while Li Shek-yau took left wing with Lai Shiu-wing deputising for Tam Kong-pak at inside-right. Wong Wah-kai replaced Wong Wing, the Chinese captain, Lau Mau lending the side.

Before the game started the players were presented to Commodore C. G. Sedgwick, R.N., following which Mrs. Sedgwick kicked off for the Chinese.

It was a goalless first half and it was late in the second half when the Chinese scored twice to gain a good victory.

The Chinese forwards were speedy and combined very well. Fung King-cheung made a welcome return and played a splendid game at centre-forward, his distribution of the ball being the feature of his game. Excellent support came from Lai Shiu-wing and Ip Pak-wah though the latter infringed the offside rule frequently in the second half and spoiled many splendid openings initiated by Fung.

Tao Kwai-shing was as speedy and as dangerous as ever on the right wing but when he indulged in his gallery play with a few tricks he found more than his equal in Bowers who slipped in time and again and left Tao standing. The Chinese, however, sent in some good high passes and his corner kicking was especially deadly, the ball dropping but a few feet from the goal mouth. On the left wing, Li Shek-yau put across fine passes which, however, were not made the most of, being stemmed in good time by either Beard or Moss, the stalwart Navy backs.

LOCAL FOOTBALL HONOURS

POLICE AND RECREIO IN RUNNERS-UP RACE

CLUB ELIMINATED

(By "Sagan")

In drawing against the East Lancashire on Saturday the Club were eliminated from the race for the runners-up position in the local football league. The honours now rest between the Police and the Club do Recreio with the Police holding a slight advantage in that they are two points ahead and one match to go against the Recreio's two more fixtures.

POLICE supporters almost saw their team beaten by the Royal Navy against whom they were twice in arrears before holding the Silent Service to a two-goal draw. Once again several reserves had to be introduced into the Police side but these men all acquitted themselves well.

SEVERAL enthusiasts were sadly disappointed when they went to the Kowloon F. C. ground to see the match. According to an official notification made during the week the fixture was arranged for the Kowloon Ground which is home ground to the Police, but the match was the Navy's home game and was played at Causeway Bay.

THE Chinese Athletic-brought off a creditable win by three goals to one against the Lincolns and they are still intent on improving their present standing. With two more matches to play they can still secure the runners-up honours only on goal average but to do this they must win both their remaining fixtures and the Police and Recreio will have to be beaten in their final match.

THE season will be brought to an official close next Saturday when the League champions (South China "A") will meet a team drawn from the rest of the Colony.

NEXT Saturday the final match of the Kotewall Cup Competition will be played between the Army and the Royal Navy. Last Saturday's fixture attracted a very poor crowd, the stands being practically empty. It seems that enthusiasts have now had just as much football as they want for one season and except for those who follow the fortunes of their particular club, the majority of fans are showing a decided preference for the beaches.

were steady—while Crocker—in goal, was brilliant, saving time and again, shots from Fung, Ip and Lai at point blank range.

NAVY OPENS STRONGLY

In the first half, the Navy were the masters of the Chinese but their efforts when in front of goal were miserable. The Chinese made one or two concerted attacks, a good shot from Tso Kwai-shing striking the upright much to Crocker's surprise.

The second half found South China a different team and they practically swept the Navy off their feet. Fung led his line well and, with Ip and Lai Shiu-wing, proved a dangerous trio.

After Crocker had brought off many splendid saves, Fung King-cheung dribbled round three Navy defenders and scored a clever goal with a ground drive. Towards the end Lai Shiu-wing broke through and made no mistake to give the Chinese their second and final goal.

In the first Kotewall Cup match played at Causeway Bay, the Army defeated South China by five goals to four.

SURPRISE IN LAWNBOWLS

INDIAN R. C. WIN

BEAT OLDEST CLUB

(By "Sagan")

The first sensation of the lawn bowls season occurred on Saturday when the newly promoted Indian R. C. team defeated the Kowloon Bowling Green Club by one shot at Sookunpoo.

I intimated last week that if the Peninsula side had any difficulty in "finding the green" they would find it hard to beat their opponents but in fairness to the winners I think it must be admitted that the visitors were not beaten because they were unable to "find the green" although, of course, this was one of their principal handicaps.

The will to win and prove their capabilities among the senior clubs defeated the Indians to victory more than anything else. Given such hardy opponents as are the Kowloon Bowling Green, the former Second Division players were determined to show their best form. There were occasions when they played inspired bowls and had their opponents out-played.

From a good start the hosts had a comfortable margin of points in their favour by tea time and it was only through their better experience that the Kowloon side only lost by one shot. The decision rested on the last head of the day and Hughie Nish had to draw second shot with his final wood when the Indians were lying three to have the game. He narrowly missed and with his failure went two valuable points.

OUTFIELD

CUBS' TEAM

Larry French, from Pittsburgh, and Tex Carleton from St. Louis.

Despite this general housecleaning, which eliminated all the "playboys," Boss Grimm denies up and down that dissension in the ranks caused his outfit to do a Jack-knife from the top of the heap near the close of last season's National League pennant race.

"All our strength was on the bench last year because of injuries," says Charley. "We had our regular team on the field but five times. There was no internal strife. Ball players have good and bad years, and we had our lean one last season."

"I'm taking a chance on building for the future, this season," Grimm continues. "I'm going to give some younger fellows a chance to make good where the veterans have failed."

CHARLEY CRACKS WHIP

Manager Grimm is "more than satisfied" with his deal with the Pirates, in which the Cubs got Bush, Herman, and Weaver for Lindstrom and French, and the trade of Tim Lincecum and Ward for Barker Carleton from St. Louis.

Like the team, Boss Grimm has changed.

"I've been a good fellow in the past," he says, "but from now on I'll stand for no more monkey business."

Despite the loss of about 15 games, on paper, through disposal of Malone, Bush, and Weaver, Grimm thinks his pitching staff this year will make "one heck of a team," and Carleton will join the "big three."

Veteran holdovers are Charley Root, on the ragged edge, Bill Lee and Bob Carleton, Chuck Klein and Pack Scales.

NEW HURDLES RECORD
200 Metres Time Lowered
By Fraction Of Second

Baton Rouge, May 5.

At the Southern Union Annual Track and Field Tournament the Olympic athlete, G. L. Phardis created a new world's record of 22.4 sec. for the 200 metres hurdles, compared with the existing record of 23 sec.—Reuter.

Four rookies are showing their wares. Clay Bryant, up from New Orleans, where he won 16 and lost 10, and Tom Casey, from Atlanta, where he won 5 and lost 6, seem to have impressed Grimm the most. Both are big fellows and right-handers.

The other two are Roy Henshaw, tiny left-hander who had a swell record of 16 wins and 4 losses with Los Angeles last season, and Fabian Kowalik, late of Buffalo, where he won 18 and lost 14.

GABBY BOSS CATCHER

Charles Leo Hartnett remains "head man" in the receiving department. The veteran 35-year-old backstop, with 12 years' service behind him, still has one of the best arms in the league. Three youngsters, all under 22, are battling for the two relief berths under Hartnett. They are Walt Gobel, up from the Pacific Coast League Angels; James O'Donoghue, from Columbus, and Walter Stephenson, who drew pay checks at Lafayette, La., last season.

Lindstrom at third adds a decided punch to the Chicago infield, to Grimm's way of thinking.

Billy Herman continues to have a leech-like hold on second base, and Billy Jurgens again will hold down the shortstop position. Phil Cavarretta, Bush, and Weaver, Grimm thinks his pitching staff this year will make "one heck of a team," and Carleton will join the "big three."

Veteran holdovers are Charley Root, on the ragged edge, Bill Lee and Bob Carleton, Chuck Klein and Pack Scales.

KING'S TURF
INTERESTRACES FOR SPORT
NOT PROFIT

Fairland was this year's Derby entrant. Each started last season, and only Curraghmore (Fritz Marcus-Bayberry) was successful. As the race he won was a small handicap at Nottingham, it is improbable that Curraghmore will have the pleasure of cheering a Royal Derby winner this year.

The King has owned some good handicap horses, among them Weatherlane, winner of the Ascot Royal Hunt Cup in 1923, and London Cry, a Goodwood Stakes winner. The King narrowly missed success in the Ascot Royal Hunt Cup in 1924. Inside the last furlong Weatherlane looked a winner, but was defeated by an outsider in Dirke.

I saw that race, says a correspondent, and near its close nearly everyone near me had his hat off, and was excitedly yelling "The King wins!"

It was not due to poor sportsmanship that there was very little applause for the winner, but to disappointment at the defeat of the King's representative.

There are other countries than England that appreciate the King's recognition of racing. The trophies attached to the King's Cup in Australia, and the King-Emperor's Cup in Calcutta are proof of that.

As King George inherited his father's love of horses, so have his sons, particularly Prince Edward and Prince Henry. Prince Edward has, however, devoted more attention to hunting than to racing, and has experienced many a fall, though, happily, he has never been seriously hurt.

But the Prince still has his racing stable; though he has not been a fortunate owner. Some day his luck may change. When it does, Britons will rejoice as much as he will.

Yes, King George and his family are typical of the British nation in their love of horses and horse-racing.

NEW
TO BAERMAY FIGHT IN LONDONSCHMELING MATCH
SUGGESTED

New York.

Max Baer, the world's heavyweight champion, received an offer of $55,000 to fight Max Schmeling, of Germany, in London during the summer.

The offer came from Armand Vincent, a Montreal sports manager, on behalf of a London syndicate. He said he was prepared to advance Baer $10,000 the moment the contract was signed.

Hoffman, Baer's manager, who is now in conference with Vincent, says he is "interested" in the offer.

Baer lost no time in contradicting the statement made by Jack Doyle, the Irish boxer—who envies the champion's success in the ring and on the screen—in the offer that Mary Kirk Brown, a New York society girl, was once engaged to Baer.

"I want to get this Mary Brown business straight," Baer said. "She's a nice girl, a lovely girl. We've had good times together, but that's all. I'm not a marrying guy; I'm in the fighting business."

back room.

Jobs of all these regulars will be in danger, however, if a newcomer, up from Chicago's Los Angeles training camp, can hit his longue pitching. COOGAN
NEAR TO DEATHONLY SURVIVOR OF CAR WRECK

San Diego, May 5.

Jackie Coogan, well-known juvenile actor, whose greatest role will probably be remembered as that of "The Kid" in Charlie Chaplin's "The Kid," astonishingly escaped death when the car in which he was riding with four others plunged over an embankment near Buckman Springs.

Mr. John Coogan, father of the young actor, was killed, as were Junior Durkin, another boy film star, Robert Horner, one of Jackie's chums, and Charles Jones, foreman of the Coogan cattle ranch.

The car was forced off the road by an unidentified machine which did not even stop to investigate when the "Coogans" machine vaulted the embankment and went crashing into the ravine. Jackie, pinned under the wreckage of the motor was found some time after the accident, and although in great pain he was not seriously injured. Two ribs were broken and he was cut and bruised.

The other four were killed instantly being flung through the air as the open car tumbled down the embankment.—Reuter.

New York.

Max Baer, the world's heavyweight champion, received an offer of $55,000 to fight Max Schmeling, of Germany, in London during the summer.

The offer came from Armand Vincent, a Montreal sports manager, on behalf of a London syndicate. He said he was prepared to advance Baer $10,000 the moment the contract was signed.

Hoffman, Baer's manager, who is now in conference with Vincent, says he is "interested" in the offer.

Baer lost no time in contradicting the statement made by Jack Doyle, the Irish boxer—who envies the champion's success in the ring and on the screen—in the offer that Mary Kirk Brown, a New York society girl, was once engaged to Baer.

"I want to get this Mary Brown business straight," Baer said. "She's a nice girl, a lovely girl. We've had good times together, but that's all. I'm not a marrying guy; I'm in the fighting business."

When Max arrived at Pennsylvania Station he sent out a scout to report if there was a crowd of girls waiting to receive him. Perhaps to his disappointment, there was none.

RIGHT DOWN THERE IS WHERE THE FIREMAN WAS FOUND LYING BY THE TRACKS! BUT HE MUST HAVE BEEN SHOT FURTHER BACK, BY THE HIGH BANK.

HOW DO YOU KNOW THAT, UNCLE TOMMY?

BECAUSE THE TRAIN WAS MOVING FIFTY MILES AN HOUR, AND AT THAT SPEED, HE WOULDN'T FALL OUT AT THE SPOT WHERE HE WAS SHOT!!

EVEN IF HE HAD, HE'D HAVE ROLLED A BIT AFTER HE HIT THE GROUND—MOMENTUM WOULD TAKE CARE OF THAT!!

NOW, I FIGURE THAT THE SNIPER COULDN'T HAVE BEEN BOTH THE FIREMAN AND ENGINEER FROM ONE SIDE OF THE BANK! THAT MAKES ME BELIEVE TWO MEN DID THE JOB!

IF YOU ASK ME, NEITHER ONE WAS SHOT FROM THE BANK... BECAUSE, IF THEY HAD BEEN, THE BULLETS WOULD HAVE RANGED DOWNWARD... AND THEY RANGED UPWARD!!

YOU'RE RIGHT, FRECKLES... LOOKS AS IF I'M ADDING UP TWO AND GETTING FIVE!

WAH YAN COLLEGE HOLDS AT HOME

PAST STUDENTS GATHER FOR FUNCTION

The first unofficial gathering of the members of the Wah Yan Past Students' Association in the nature of an "At Home" was held on Saturday night in the Wah Yan College Hall, and was presided over by Mr. Fung Kwok-wah.

Among the large number present were: the Rev. Fr. R. W. Gallagher, the Headmaster, the Very Rev. Fr. G. Byrne, the Rev. Fr. E. Bourke, the Rev. Fr. T. Ryan, the Rev. J. Garland, the Rev. G. L. Kennedy, the Rev. R. Kennedy, the Rev. E. Ward, the Rev. B. Kelly, the Rev. Fr. D. Donnelly, the Rev. Fr. T. Fleming, the Rev. T. Martin, the Rev. T. Sheridan, Mrs. E. Millard, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Maurilio, Mrs. A. Ng, Messrs. W. A. Youngsaye, P. A. Dragon, Wong Tuen-po, Lo Mo-to and over 300 past Wahyanites.

A pleasant evening was spent by all, entertainment for the visitors being provided by songs by the Rev. Fr. W. Gallagher, musical selections by Mrs. E. Millard and Messrs. Kwan Man-wai and company, and a short act of Robin Hood and his Merry Men in the Sherwood Forest presented by the College students.

President's Speech

In his address to the gathering, the President of the Association, Mr. Ko Fook-sun, said:

On behalf of our Past Students' Association, I have great pleasure in welcoming you all to this party. I am very happy to see so many cheerfully gathered in this old homestead, where we have spent many happy days together.

Amidst these old and familiar surroundings of our school days, I am sure every one of us now feels deep regard and affection towards the Alma Mater. Well, this large attendance here speaks volumes for our affection for and interest in the Alma Mater. We have come, indeed, to realise fully our great indebtedness towards her, and it is this indebtedness, coupled with our earnest desire for reunions among Wahyanites, who have, after leaving school, entered different professions in and outside of this Colony, that gave birth to this Association.

I remember when I returned from abroad five months ago, I was extremely anxious to meet those Wahyanites who had spent with me the early days of their boyhood under the same sheltering roof of the Alma Mater. Some of their names are always in my mind and their faces are still familiar, but I had not the opportunity to chat with them about the good old days when our school lives were so interesting. However, I am not the only one who clamours for this opportunity and I believe many are in the same boat with me.

Fortunately the Rev. Fr. Rector of the College, who has in his heart the warm esteem of every Old Boy, proposed to establish the Wah Yan Past Students' Association, and it is due to his kind help, generosity and encouragement that this Association was ushered into the world about a month ago. Those responsible at the general meeting conferred upon me a great honour by electing me the first president. I realise the great responsibility that has fallen upon me, and with the support and guidance of the Council, I shall work hard in order to accomplish the aims laid down in the constitution.

But no matter how hard the Council and I may work, this institution will not flourish into a really active and permanent organisation without the co-operative support of all past Wahyanites. In view of this, a Programme Committee has been appointed to carry out the activities set down for the current year, such as the calling of swimming picnics, the formation of athletic and photographic clubs and the organisation of lectures and debates.

Attendance and Co-operation. Our Alma Mater is proud of the energetic and educated sons she brings forth into the world, and we should be thankful for her education which enables us to do something great and useful in after life. For what she has benefited us, let every one of us be faithful to her by promoting friendship and goodwill among ourselves, and maintaining a closer link with her. Therefore I earnestly appeal to all past Wahyanites to join this Association. I must make it clear that it is not a mere association in name. It is not merely a question of giving the annual subscription fee and feeling that an appeal has been responded to; it is much more than that. It is our claim for your constant attendance and co-operation. For, by supporting the Association we are supporting ourselves. No matter what may happen to us after leaving school, of this I am sure, that each one is proud of knowing the other and wishes that he is worthy of the Alma Mater, the dear fountain of knowledge and the shrine of all our youthful hopes and ambitions.

To-night's function is given jointly by the College and the Association. The Rev. Fr. Rector has very generously given us a handsome donation to the sum of $100 towards defraying the expenses incurred and the use of the College Hall. As we are back to the home of our College, I hope you will make yourselves at home to-night.

In conclusion, I beg to thank Rev. Fr. Rector for his valuable guidance and support which have made this Association no far so successful, members of the Programme and Decoration Committee, the Hotel Cecil, for supplying refreshments at a reduced rate, Mr. Ho Sai-wai for giving us a free supply of flowers and all those who have helped to make this function a success.

In his reply to the President, the Very Rev. Fr. Rector said:

It is with very great pleasure that I rise to second the words of our worthy President, especially his plea for active co-operation on the part of the members. Since our inaugural meeting on January 20, and more particularly since our foundation on March 20, it has been most inspiring to see the way the members, headed by their President, have thrown themselves into the task of making the Association a success.

Many years ago, Emerson wrote that if we wish to succeed we must hitch our chariots to the stars. The higher we aim the higher we shall get, the nobler the ideal the greater the achievement.

The ideal of the Association is to forge a chain binding not a few but all past students of Wah Yan. The College in which their early years were spent and in which they were prepared for the battle of life is to be the captain round which that chain is wound.

In order that the ideal be attained and that, as your President has said, the Association may not be one in name only, there must be a continued and close contact of the chain with the Alma Mater and, as well, each link of the chain must fit into its place in the whole. The ideal is expressed in another way in the preamble to the Rules and Constitution: The aim of the Association is to bring the past students into closer touch with the College; into closer touch with one another; to foster a spirit of mutual help; to interest the Past Students in works of social value.

It may seem paradoxical to say that school begins when it ends, but it is none the less true. It is after the seclusion of our school life that the real schooling begins. We change our school, but we do not cease our schooling. We graduate from the School of Wah Yan to the School of Life, which, as many of you know, offers a far more difficult curriculum, and far stiffer examinations. It is in that school that a man is really tested, not at intervals of a year or a week, but day by day, unceasingly. He is not tested in the academic subjects of his early days, but in something far more fundamental. It is a test of character, of moral spirit, of the spirit of forbearance, of sympathy towards others, of hard, honest, painstaking attention to the duties of our state in life.

To Benefit All

Very many pass the examination, but some do not. That is why I wish the Association to link up not merely those who have brought honour and fame to the College, but those who are perhaps unknown. It is an Association which should aim at being a benefit to all who have ever sat upon the benches of the College. We should therefore do our best to win to our Association all old boys with whom we come in contact, that by getting in touch with them, and by showing them that Wah Yan has still a keen interest in them, we may give them courage.

I would have all old boys know that Wah Yan College is theirs and that we, in whose care the College is, want those old students to look upon us as friends always and at all times.

May this "At Home", the first unofficial gathering, be the starting point of a happy and successful career and an ever increasing membership of the Association. (Applause)

In endorsing the words of the Rev. Fr. Rector and the President, the Very Rev. Fr. G. Byrne, legal correspondent of the College, further stressed the need of building up the Association and asked for the whole-hearted support of its members.

It was announced that the next of a series of activities will be a swimming picnic at Big Wave Bay. The launch will leave Queen's Pier at 2 p.m. on Saturday, May 11.

SERIAL STORY

The DARK BLOND

by CARLETON KENDRICK

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

MILICENT GRAVES' employer, GEORGE DRINGOLD, tells her he has a confession to make and warns her against a woman in a black emerald coat.
Millicent leaves the office and goes such a woman. Later she finds her purse has been taken and a similar one substituted. In the elevator she meets a distinguished looking man of middle age.
Returning to the office Millicent finds Dringold dead. In panic she rushes away and registers at a hotel under an assumed name. Next day she meets the stranger again. He tells her name is JACOB HARRY. Harry sends her to a beauty shop where, in spite of her protests, she is transformed into a brunette.
Harry takes her home, introducing her as his secretary. He gives her a suitcase filled with accounts and asks her to open a set of books. Harry's son, NORMAN, tells her not to trust his stepbrother, ROBERT CARNE. She says, "There seems to be some menacing personality dominating the household," and Norman exclaims, "The woman in black emerald!"

CHAPTER X

Millicent Graves felt pulses pounding in her neck. She moved toward Norman Happ. Unconsciously her hand reached out and rested on his sleeve, as though to keep him from leaving her until it had the information she desired.
"What do you mean?" she asked.
"What do you know about a woman in a black emerald coat?"
He stared at her speculatively. Slowly, his right hand slid along his left forearm until it had come to rest upon the back of her hand, holding it tightly.
"What do you know about it?" he asked.
"I don't know," she said. "That is, I can't tell you. Please don't make me tell. Just tell me. Explain what you mean. Who is she?"
"I think," he said, "she's a psychic—one of those astrological nuts—but she's got Cynthia completely hypnotized."
"Does she come here?"
"You mean the woman in the black coat?"
"Yes."
"Three or four times she's been here."
"Have you seen her?"
"Twice."
"Have you seen her face? Would you know her if you saw her again?"
Norman Happ shook his head impatiently.
"Why all these questions?" he asked. "What interest is it of yours?"
"Would you know her if you saw her again?"
"I've only glimpsed her in a dark corridor. I've never seen her face. That's why I've described her as the woman in a black emerald coat. She's a rich fur with a high collar, she walks with quick, nervous steps, as though she were always in a hurry."
"Then how do you know she runs the house?"
"I didn't say she ran the house,"
"You intimated as much."
"No, I said she had a strange influence over Cynthia."
"What is it? Tell me more about her."
"I've already told you all I know. She's engaged in one of those racket—numerology or astrology or something of the sort."
"But," Millicent said, "they're all of them different. She isn't proficient in all of them. She's just an adventurer."
"I think she's just an adventurer," Norman said. "One of those racketeers who go around looking for people to victimize."
"What makes you think that?"
"Because of the funny things that happen. Every time Cynthia gets in touch with this woman there's some unusual and unpleasant development."
"Can't you tell me more clearly?"
"There's nothing much to tell. The woman comes here and has a seance with Cynthia. Whatever it is, it leaves Cynthia all exhausted. She takes to her room and stays there. Her personal maid is posted at the door, with orders to admit no one, and the door is locked and kept locked. It's some time next day before Cynthia will come out, looking white and drawn. She hasn't eaten, and she doesn't look as though she'd slept."
"And then what happens?"
"Then she does goofy things. She puts a lot of new plans into execution. You can't ever tell what she'll do. Perhaps you'll be getting along fine and giving satisfactory service, and then this woman in the black emerald coat will call on Cynthia, and the next day Cynthia will come out of her room looking like a ghost, with a paper on which she's written a lot of things she wants done, and one of the first things may be firing you."
"But I wasn't hired by her," Millicent said. "I was hired by your father."
"That won't make any difference," Norman said. "If she comes out of her room with it written on a piece of paper that you're fired, you'll be fired. I don't care who hired you or what your arrangement is."
"And you think that's likely to happen?"
"Heavens, no! I just mentioned it because it's just typical of some of the things that she's done."
"And your father puts up with this?" she asked. "This business of having his house run by an astrologer?"
"He puts up with it," Norman Happ said gloomily. "That's one of the things I don't like."
He hesitated a moment, then added, in a burst of confidence, "Father is dreadfully unhappy. The whole household is hostile to him. I think it all comes from Bob Carne. Bob's one of those selfish, flippant fellows who's always spreading some sort of propaganda. If you don't watch Slowly Norman's arms came around her. Then he drew her to him.

him, he'll influence you in spite of yourself."
"You think he's that clever?"
"He's clever enough, all right—and selfish."
"How does he get along with this mysterious astrologer who influences his mother so profoundly?"
Norman said slowly, "Bob's got something up his sleeve on that woman—I don't know just what it is. He's going to do something about it somewhere along the line. Bob's dangerous, you know."
"And you think he's responsible for your father's unhappiness?"
"I think he's got a lot to do with it."
"Listen," she said, "I don't wish to seem to be gossiping. I want you to believe me when I tell you that I've got a reason for asking you the questions I'm asking. I can't tell you what that reason is, but it's important that I know what's going on here. Can you tell me whether your father ever talks with this astrologer?"
"I don't think so," Happ said. "Dad has to keep pretty much to himself. Cynthia bosses the servants, and she's a hard boss. I don't think any of them are loyal to Dad except Harry Felding, the chauffeur."
"His loyal?"
"Yes, look here, I shouldn't be telling you all this. I came in to find out about Bob. You're pumping me."
"Please," she said, "please tell me more. I've got to know what's going on in this house."
She swayed close to him and, as she did so, felt the tingle of his presence enveloping her as with a magnetic mantle.

"What do you want to know?" he asked, and his voice sounded throaty and husky.
"I want to know," she said, "about your father—about this astrologer—about Harry Felding."
"If you want to know anything about this woman astrologer," he said, "ask Harry Felding. I happen to know that Dad told him to shadow the woman the next time she came to the house. He wanted her."
Norman Happ abruptly checked himself.
"Wanted what?" Millicent breathed, leaning closer to him.
Happ looked in her eyes, held her gaze. Colour flooded his face. Millicent knew what was going to happen before it happened, yet had no power to prevent it.
For what seemed ages she stood staring into his eyes, her soul flooded with some powerful emotion, her body robbed of conscious volition.
Slowly Norman Happ's arms came around her, then hungrily he drew her to him. The slow deliberation with which his embrace had started was supplanted by a writhing tempo of hungry haste as his emotions swept him beyond his control. Millicent felt her lips crushed to his, felt her form held so close that she could feel his throbbing heart, could feel the burning tips of his pressing fingers as they dug into her shoulders.
For a long, helpless moment her whole seemed to flow through her clinging lips and then, suddenly, she regained her power to move. She pushed back from him, gasping.
"Get!" she said. "If anyone should find you here—as a knuckle tapped gently, and insistently upon her door."

selves a closer bond of sympathy than may have existed between them and His predecessors since the Reformation" said the Rt. Rev. Bishop H. Valtorta in the course of a sermon at the Roman Catholic Thanksgiving Service in the Cathedral this morning.

The three reasons for that bond, said the Bishop, were the Coronation Oath, in which His Majesty had refused to utter the clause condemning Mass as superstitious, the Royal Family Ideal and the yearning of His Majesty for the unity of nations in the harmony of peace.

There was a large congregation service, prominent amongst those attending the service being Colonel Damas Mora, Lieut. S. Viera and Lieut. Alb. d'Oliveira, representing His Excellency the Governor of Macao, the Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga, Mr. Charles Renner, Vice Consul for France, Mr. T. E. Lacayo, Consul for Nicaragua, Mr. J. M. Rocha, Consul for Costa Rica, Mr. C. H. Basso, Consul for Bolivia, Mr. A.A.R. Botelho, Consul for Honduras, Rev. Fr. M.O. O'Carroll, Military Chaplain, Rev. Fr. T. A. Giles, Naval Chaplain, Major and Mrs. H. H. Dempsey, Major and Mrs. A. N. Macfadyen, Major V. J. Bonavin, Major Barry, Captain M. R. Burke, Captain Regan, M.B.E., M.M., Lieut. W. L. Beaumont, Lieut. J. P. Williams, Lieut. N. P. Dawney, Lieut. N. P. Moore, Lieut. A. E. Dorna, Lt. Commander and Mrs. F. X. d'Almada e Castro, Chev. J. M. Alves, Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Felby, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hayden, Mrs. M. Taggart, Mr. Q.A.A. Macfadyen, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Ballantyne, Mr. G. P. de Martin, Mr. H. C. Macnamara, Mr. W. B. Finnigan, Mr. C. E. Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. T. Murphy, Mr. W. Bourchier, the Misses Loureiro, Mr. W. Fitzgibbon, men of the Royal Navy and Army and many Catholic clergy.

THE SERMON

Bishop Valtorta took as his text the words "I have raised him up to justice, and I will direct all his ways; he shall build my city, and let go my captives, not for ransom, nor for presents, saith the Lord God of Hosts." He said: "One who believes in the Providence of God must believe that a special guidance will be offered to those who have a very special part to play in the direction of human affairs. The words of my text show that this is so. They were spoken long ago of King Cyrus, the King of Persia. King Cyrus was not of the stock of Israel; yet the Prophet assures us that he was raised up by God to build for them God's city and to lead men by the way of justice. On a small scale or on a vast scale man cannot avoid being his brother's keeper and to some men, as to Kings, God assigns an outstanding role. Must not, then, every citizen of the British Empire believe that to the King, whose Jubilee is being commemorated,

God has given special talents and special gifts to guide unto the way of peace and harmony the great Empire which turns to him as guide? St. Paul himself, the great Apostle, urges us to honour the trust by "making prayers and thanksgiving for Kings... that we may lead a peaceable life in all piety and chastity."

THE POPE AND THE KING

As Catholics, we have even greater reasons for doing so. Recently, speaking of the approaching canonization of the two English martyrs, John Fisher and Thomas More, our Holy Father Pope Pius XI recalled in these words the special visit paid to him in May 1925 by King George and Queen Mary: "In every part of the British Empire there are Catholics, children of the common Father. Was it not a great consolation for Us to hear from the lips of their beloved Sovereign that those Catholics were amongst his most faithful subjects?"

Indeed, apart from patriotic devotedness to the Royal Family and the many natural reasons that call for our loyalty, all Catholics may find between King George V and themselves a closer bond of sympathy than may have existed between them and His predecessors since the Reformation; and this for three reasons: the Coronation Oath, The Royal Family Ideal, and the yearning for the unity of Nations in the harmony of peace.

THE CORONATION OATH

The Coronation Oath of the King of England, since the Reformation, contained a clause condemning as superstitious the Mass, round which the devotion of all Catholics revolves. This clause was a public stab in the Catholic heart given by one who would claim and receive their best allegiance. It will stand to the credit of King George for all time in history that he "was raised up to justice" for his subjects. He would never utter such words, and the offensive clause, so contrary to the Faith of Bishop Fisher and Sir Thomas More whose fourth glorious Centenary coincides with the Silver Jubilee of the King who respected their Faith, dropped from the Oath. Can you wonder, Brethren, that to-day, as on the Coronation Day, a special note of joyful gratitude vibrates in the Thanksgivings of His Majesty's Catholic subjects? He did this "not for presents, but unto justice."

ROYAL FAMILY IDEAL

Amidst the wreckage of noble inspirations and the break up of the cherished traditions of the past, no wreckage is more fatal to the life of a Nation than the wreckage of a Nation's homes. East or West, all must realise that an attack on the sanctity of family life is a tragedy. Such attacks may come from blundering politicians. But the Royal Family stands out as a brilliant headlight to a world in darkness, a call to save the home if we would save ought. All honour to a King who, in his own home, is first and foremost a true husband and a true father; and to a Queen who is the mother of her home! If the Royal Princesses have won not only respect but affection wherever they have gone, is it not because they are children not of a Royal household but children of a Royal home?

To-day, in a world of dissolution, the Catholic Church stands alone for the pure family ideal in her defence for the sanctity of the home in an indissoluble marriage. It is another bond of sympathy with a King and Queen who can tactfully "in all peace" guide a Nation, because they lovingly "in all chastity" guard a Home.

HARMONY OF PEACE

In these days of war rumours, of racial antipathy, of class struggles, it is not easy, nay it is extremely difficult, for any one man who rules a nation to enjoy international goodwill. It is still more difficult for a King who, in the course of 25 years, has seen so many thrones crumble around him. Yet—and it is not a big subject for thanksgiving for all those who hail him as their King—George V is a man respected of all nations because all feel that "not for ransom nor for presents" his heart has always been in the effort to unite elements in so vast an Empire, and to labour for the harmony of world peace.

Here we find another special link with Catholic thought. To-day there is only one empire slung further afield than that over which King George rules. It is the Catholic Church. Her Empire is spiritual. She prays that the Divine Master's prayer for one great sheepfold in which all the sheep may find life and peace be realised. Over it is one shepherd, one guide, one father, whose rule is a rule of love and who is always striving for love and harmony of peace amongst all nations.

A HARVEST OF PEACE

One of the greatest of English Churchmen, Cardinal Newman, in his exquisite sermon on "Second Spring" prayed thus: "May the intercession of the new Confessors and Martyrs, John Fisher and Thomas More, hasten the blossoming of the second spring and obtain that fields already white with the grain of faith, still more abundant fruit of souls to be gathered into the barns of the Heavenly Husbandman." That was in 1862. Eighty-three years have passed. The Holy Father is about to canonize those two Martyrs. It is not striking that, on the eve of this act, he coupled the centenary of the Martyrs and the Silver Jubilee of the King. Turning to those around him he said: "We wish to bless England and the whole British Empire, and in doing this we invoke in a very special way our two glorious martyrs and all the martyrs who, in so numerous array shed their blood for the Catholic Faith in England. We pray that through their merits the blossoms of spring may come forth to be followed by the abundant fruits, the fruits of our Redemption."—So, dear Brethren, we will kneel and pray that the Jubilee of the King and the Centenary of the Martyrs may fruitfully blend in a harvest of joy and peace.
